Let France, Italy Worry
We Have Our Troubles
Racketeering Profits
A Costly Thirst

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

YOU MAY READ: "Washington says that the hitch between Italy and France on their shipping program may be serious."

It may be serious for France and Italy, but it need not be serious for us if we attend to our own business, keeping ourselves prepared for any kind of navy, surface, air or submarine fleets that others may build.

We have things in THIS country that are serious and ought to keep Washington busy—for instance our millions of unemployed, a deficit of $800,000,000 which threatens, and the danger of discouraging business enterprise, employment and industry by increasing taxation.

• • •

While Uncle Sam struggles with a deficit of $800,000,000 and his treasury worries about a few hundred millions of bonus for veterans, it may interest you to know where the "real money" goes. The "racket" in fraudulent securities in New York state alone, according to the state crime commission, amounts to $600,000,000 a year. The United States district attorney for eastern New York says racketeers take from two to four hundred millions a year from almost every business in New York City.

The reward of racketeering in the United States, throughout the country, according to the crime commission, is FROM 12 TO 18 BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

That would more than run all the government expenses, including pensions, bond interest, army, navy and amortization of the national debt, and leave billions to spare.

Racketeering, born of prohibition, seems to be an expensive institution.

• • •

THE ENGLISH DRYS say their nation's drinking bill is $1,337,500,000. Dean Inge calls this shameful.

In England the kind of ale that cost 7 cents before the war now costs 16 cents. That the average Briton calls "shameful."

British spending is small compared with ours. The gloomy dean says we spend 21 thousand million dollars a year on amusements alone, including golf, cigarets, chewing gum and soda water, enough to pay all England's expenses and wipe out the debt.

The callous American, believe it or not, replies: "We would rather amuse ourselves with the 21 billions than use it to pay England's expenses and wipe out the British debt."

When racketeers learn that amusements in America cost several billions more than they collect, they probably will do something about it.

In England the national bill for alcoholic drink dropped $55,000,000 in 1930, compared with 1929. There is no drop in our prohibition country.

Also fortunately for Britain, the British drop in consumption is chiefly in the consumption of whisky and gin. Beer instead of whisky and gin is a good program if you must drink something with alcohol in it.

Throng Assembles for Farewell to Rockne

FAMOUS COACH OF NOTRE DAME LAID TO REST

Simple but Impressive Ceremonies Precede Interment Near College Campus.

THRONG FILLS SOUTH BEND

Persons from All Walks of Life Are Present for Last Services.

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 4 — The destined day for Notre Dame's man of destiny came at last today.

Knute Kenneth Rockne was ushered back unto earth, his final resting place, beneath the spreading boughs of Old Council Oak, which has stood majestically for more than two centuries as a silent shrine of peace to men, and by nightfall, a shrine of peace to that restless man whose genius for friendships and athletic conquests amazed a nation, even a world.

Only a few hours before the shadows of a setting sun died on the shimmering golden dome of old Notre Dame, the body of the Viking started on its last earthly journey of only a few short miles from his pretty little dreamhouse, in Sunnymede, past the black and white-draped columns of the football stadium he built, then into the campus cathedral of the Church of the Sacred Heart for brief yet impressive services and thence, lastly, to his grave in Highland cemetery.

It was the day of sad farewell to Rockne. The world of sport and good fellowships mourned and their representatives were present, thousands of them from everywhere, to view his sad exit.

It was a sadder day still for six boys, who learned football and life from him on the greensward of the gridiron. For these youths—Tom Conley, Tom Yarr, Marchmont Schwartz, Frank Carideo Marty Brill and Larry Mullins—who fought shoulder to shoulder to give Rockne two national championship teams in his two last years, were to shoulder now, his bronze casket to the grave.

And it was saddest of all for his widow, her four children, Rockne's 72-year-old mother and the Catholic fathers of Notre Dame, who were caught in the fell clutch of circumstance.

In keeping with Mrs. Rockne's wish for simplicity, the funeral was

RED CROSS IN CHARGE OF MANAGUA RELIEF

Official Arrives in Stricken City To Direct Work of Rehabilitation.

By The Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 4—The Red Cross today took charge of relief work in Managua, razed by earthquake Tuesday and gutted by fire in the hours that followed.

Aided by the United States Marines and Nicaraguan constabulary, Ernest J. Swift, Red Cross official who arrived late yesterday by plane from Miami, set in motion relief and salvage machinery which will aim toward eventual rehabilitation of the city's 45,000 stricken population.

Swift came to a city of ruins, deserted by two-thirds of its residents and with the remaining third living in tents and temporary shelters on the heights overlooking the debris. Swift said that never in his experience with disasters has he found one where the destruction was so complete. Two thousand persons lost their lives.

While recovery of bodies of victims and treatment of injuries continue, other marine patrols are meeting certain emergency situations which have developed. Guard details have carried out unhesitatingly orders to shoot looters, and four despatched Thursday night are understood to have brought the total executed to 20.

BOY HERO TO VISIT HOOVER

Bryan Untiedt, 13, Honored for Part Played in Bus Tragedy.

COMING TO WHITE HOUSE

Receives Invitation After President Hears Story of Heroism.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 4—The 12 year-old boy hero of the Colorado school bus tragedy will be rewarded for his resourcefulness by something not many grownups can boast of—a night at the White House as the guest of the President.

But the youngster will be without his brother, who froze to death with four other children in a school bus stalled in a blizzard near Towner, Colorado last week.

After President Hoover returned from his Carribbean trip he read of the Colorado tragedy. Impressed by the story of Bryan Untiedt, he invited the boy to be his guest. The invitation was accepted, and in about two weeks Bryan will be able to leave the Lamar, Colorado hospital and come to the capital.

The story that brought the White House invitation was this:

A blizzard on March 26 stopped the Pleasant Hill school bus. The driver, Carl Miller, went for help, leaving Bryan in charge.

Miller did not come back. He froze to death.

Through the day Bryan tried to keep his schoolmates busy and satisfied. He organized boxing matches and games to keep the blood flowing and hold off lassitude that creeps through a freezing body.

When night came tired children succumbed to the penetrating and increasing cold. Bryan gave them his own wraps. One of the first to die was his brother, Orlo.

Finally the missing bus was found. Five of the 22 children were dead. The others, including Bryan, were in agony from frostbite.

Seventeen children were saved and taken to the Lamar hospital where they are now recovering.

GRANTS REMOVAL OF RAILROAD SUIT

Bucyrus Judge Releases Case to U. S. District Court in Cleveland.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, April 4—A petition for removal to the United States district court, Cleveland, was granted this morning by Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl in the injunction suit of the city of Bucyrus against the New York Central Railroad company.

The petition for the removal was filed today by Attorney C. F. Lewis of Toledo and Charles Gallinger of this city.

Home Too Warlike, Girl Says, Requesting Change

By United Press

URBANA, O., April 4—Helen Webb, 18, of Christiansburg, O., today had filed a motion in common pleas court here, asking the court to permit her to live at the home of an uncle rather than with her father, to whose custody she was awarded as the result of a divorce suit.

The girl stated in her petition that her parents fight continually and that she does not care to live with them.

REVERENT THRONGS WILL FILL CHURCHES

Pageants, Cantatas and Special Services To Honor Risen Christ Sunday.

Reverent throngs will fill Marion churches Sunday to rejoice in the risen Christ. Easter Sunday and Christmas are the two days in the church year when pastors are assured crowded auditoriums for the services.

Pageants, cantatas, a play and baptism are named on programs in several of the churches. Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. church, will anoint Sunday morning with water that he dipped from the River Jordan in Palestine on his trip abroad last year.

Services at St. Mary's Catholic church will be especially beautiful Sunday. The altars will be alight with candles, and banked with flowers, and the atmosphere will be one of hope and joy, carried out in the masses and services.

The young people will take part in the Easter services with sunrise prayer and praise meetings. An Easter morning service, sponsored by the Hi-Y and Girl Reserves of Harding High school, will be held at 7 a. m. at the Harding memorial. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood pastor of Trinity Baptist church, will deliver a short address. In case of inclement weather, the services will be held at First Presbyterian church.

The service will consist of songs, prayers and special music. Young people have been especially invited to attend these services, which will be open to the public.

Sunrise services have been announced at the following churches: Prospect Street M. E., 6 a. m.; First Presbyterian, 6 a. m.; Asbury M. E., 6:30 a. m.; Emmanuel Baptist, 6 a. m.; First Reformed, 6 a. m.; Trinity Baptist, 6:30 a. m.; First Church of the Brethren, 5:30 a. m.; Calvary Evangelical, 6 a. m.; Salem Evangelical, 6 a. m.

LOST POSTAL CARD NEARS DESTINATION

Mail About Victorious in 14-Year Search for Soldier.

The lost is found—almost. Private Alfred C. Wagner to whom a post card was sent 14 years ago from Marion and returned here unclaimed yesterday, is living on a farm near Marion, and perhaps in the vicinity of Delaware.

W. M. Laughman, first sergeant in Co. D., O. N. G., in which Wagner was a private, and Major George T. Geran, looked over the company records this morning.

Wagner, known to his buddies as "Humpy," enlisted here July 15, 1917. The card was mailed from here Aug. 29, 1917. He was with the company, in the 166th Rainbow infantry, until Nov. 15, 1918, when an injury sent him to a hospital in France. He never rejoined his company.

Only on Decoration days do his buddies here see him, and then talk goes back over the years in France, and not much is said about home addresses. But the men here are confident that he is living somewhere in the neighborhood of Marion.

The card was postmarked to Wagner in Co. D. O. N. G. There were many of Co. D's in the Ohio National Guard during the war. The card has never reached him after traveling from training camp to training camp and through France and Belgium.

TO BE FAIR FOR EASTER PARADE

Easter fashion promenade may proceed in Marion without fear of interruption from the weather, official forcasters advised today. Weather bureau officials said Easter will bring fair weather with sunshine and warmer temperatures.

Fair weather, accompanied by a heavy frost will prevail tonight, the forecast said. If the sunshine Sunday repeats its performance yesterday, local temperatures will range around the 50 mark.

FLOOD MENACE COMES IN PATH OF OHIO DROUTH

FOLLOWS HEAVY RAIN

Situation in Athens District Serious; Bus Lines Quit Operating.

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., April 4—Stricken by the drouth last summer the Athens district today was in the path of a flood.

A four-inch rainfall during the past two days caused both the Hocking river and Sunday Creek to leave their banks. The Hocking today was at a stage of 16 and one-half feet, just one-half a foot under the official flood stage. The river, however, was out of its banks, in many places. Part of the state hospital grounds here and the Ohio university athletic field were flooded. Basements in many homes in low lying districts were filling up rapidly. The river was rising at the rate of an inch an hour.

The flood waters of Sunday creek covered the highway north of Chauncey between Athens and Gloucester, forcing buses to suspend operations. Athens was in the heart of the Ohio region stricken by the drouth. Crops were ruined and rivers, creeks and wells dried up. Drouth conditions still exist south of here.

RAINFALL GENERAL

Fear of Flood Exists Throughout South-Central Ohio.

By United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 4—South-central Ohio has been transferred from a drouth-stricken area to a section in fear of floods.

While 1.09 inches of rain had fallen in Columbus during the 36 hours preceding this morning, much larger quantities were measured in the territory to the south.

Wilmington, in Clinton county, led the list with 2.44 inches. There was 1.9 inches at Athens, 1.51 inches at Jackson and 1.52 inches at Circleville. Two highways near Portsmouth were flooded.

Fields which cracked open in the drouth which burned up crops and water supplies for livestock, are drenched and soaked.

The rainfall has been sufficient to renew springs and flush out streams which had become stagnant and contaminated, it was said.

WARNING ISSUED

Columbus Auto Club Tells of Submerged Highways.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 4—A number of highways in the southern Ohio drouth area were closed today—by flood waters. Heavy rain fell over the region during the last two days causing all streams to rise rapidly.

The automobile club today reported the detour on Ohio road No. 11, between Chillicothe and Jackson, was under eight feet of water. U. S. 21, north of Marietta, is closed at Whipple and the same highway is flooded between Cambridge and Newcomerstown. Ohio 13 between Gloucester and Trimble, also is flooded.

Auto club officials urged motorists to get in touch with the club before venturing into southern Ohio.

TOLEDO MERCHANTS FACE INDICTMENTS

Six Named by Grand Jury After Inquiry into County Purchases.

By United Press.

TOLEDO, O., April 4—Six Toledo merchants who sold supplies to the county jail were indicted by the Lucas county grand jury today in its final report.

Twenty-five true bills were returned against the merchants.

In addition, the jury returned 37 new indictments against Sheriff Joseph Zimmerman and Deputy Sheriff Clarence Honberger, to replace a similar number returned against the two officials Feb. 27.

No indictments were returned by the jury in its recent probe of county road building.

All of the true bills charged fraud in purchase and sale of supplies for the jail. Honeberger also was charged with bribery.

MIAMI, Fla., April 4—The condition of former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, who is convalescing from an appendicitis operation, continued to improve today.

Illinois Man Goes to Church—and Stays

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 4—If a man goes to church and stays there he may be guilty of malicious mischief. This possibility arose when State's Attorney A. V. Smith filed a malicious mischief charge yesterday in the county court against Clarence Spierling.

Spierling moved his family and his dog into the Hickory Corners Methodist church at Antioch, Feb. 26, when his own home burned down, and has since refused to move, contending the church authorities forfeited their right to tenancy through failure to hold regular services. The hearing was set for April 9.

MARION ON NEW AERIAL ROUTE

Application Made To Operate Sandusky-Columbus Mail, Passenger Line.

FILED FROM ERIE COUNTY

"Flying Sheriff" and Brother Propose To Replace Railway Service.

By International News Service.

SANDUSKY, O., April 4—Application has been made to the United States postoffice department to inaugurate an air-mail and passenger route from Sandusky to Columbus, through Marion, Bucyrus and Delaware, John W. Parker, Erie county's "flying sheriff," one of the applicants, revealed today.

The application was sent to Postmaster General Walter Brown by Sheriff Parker and his brother, Luke Parker, operator of an air-mail and passenger service between Sandusky and Kelly's Island in Lake Erie.

Sheriff Parker said the application was made after permission was granted the Pennsylvania railroad to discontinue its mail and passenger service over the proposed mail route by the state public utilities commission.

The New York Central railroad also has an application to abandon a similar route pending at the present time he said.

INSPECTS BUCYRUS PORT

Parker Representative Finds Field Up to Requirements.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, April 4 — Announcement was made today by the chamber of commerce that representatives of Parker brothers, passenger service operators from Sandusky were considering this city as one of the stopping places in their proposed air route between Sandusky and Columbus. After visiting the local airport the representative expressed himself as being well satisfied with the port as a landing field.

The air line would take the place of the passenger and mail service suspended recently by the Pennsylvania railroad. Mail and passenger service now are routed through either Cleveland or Toledo causing considerable delay.

Ohio Woman Robbed of $5,000 in Jewels

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 4—Two burglars obtained jewelry and diamonds valued at $5,000 after forcing an entrance into the apartment of Mrs. Nellie Sturgis here late Friday afternoon. The loot included two rings, a pendant and a brooch. The pair are believed to have fled in a Ford coupe which was parked near the entrance of the building.

Costly Growth

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., April 4— Just when the country was doing all it could to economize in government, why, along comes a law and and says:

"Every time your state gets so many thousands new population, they must all throw in and hire another representative in their state congress."

Well, California foolishly grew, and now they got to pay for it. A dozen unemployed must be sent to Congress by the taxpayers.

Well, California is split wide in two. The north of the state claims these new ones shall come from the south, and the south claims they should come from the north, and the taxpayers are so sore about having to hire extra ones that they don't care where they come from, but are telling 'em where to go. Yours,

Will Rogers

START SEARCH AFTER MARTIN IS CONVICTED

Authorities Determined To Find Men Back of Potter Murder.

HYMIE FACES LIFE TERM

Leo Brothers Found Guilty in Lingle Case; Attorneys To Continue Fight.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 4—Pittsburgh Hymie, rum runner and gambler, today stood branded as the killer of former Councilman William E. Potter, but the conviction was only the start of the hunt for the "higher ups."

No sooner had the jury of five women and seven men brought in the verdict late yesterday that means Martin must spend the rest of his life in the penitentiary than authorities announced they were seeking another alleged accomplice. When the second man is found, they believe they may be near to learning who ordered Potter's death and why.

Collins Wanted

The man now sought by Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody and Prosecutor Ray T. Miller is Harry Collins, alias Louis Klein, alias Louis Rohdy, alias Charles Marks—the man whom Martin said he was with the afternoon of the murder. He also was with Martin and Potter the same afternoon, Prosecutor Miller believes.

Pittsburg police also were asked to pick up two other men for questioning.

Meanwhile Defense Attorney William E. Minshall said he would file a motion for a new trial and would charge that Judge Walter McMahon erred in urging the jury to come to an agreement when it reported a deadlock yesterday afternoon.

The jury's verdict—guilty of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy—was given in dramatic fashion late yesterday 25 hours from the time the jury retired. Martin, who throughout the trial had smiled confidently and

14 YEARS FOR BROTHERS

Gets Light Sentence for Lingle Case; Will Fight for Acquittal.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 4—Responsibility for the murder of Alfred Lingle was placed today on the shoulders of Leo V. Brothers through his conviction by a jury which decided on 14 years imprisonment as his punishment.

Breaking what appeared to be a hopeless deadlock, the jury in Judge Sabath's court found the tall, blonde St. Louis gangster guilty late yesterday afternoon, and gave him the lightest sentence possible under Illinois law. Twenty-seven hours of stormy deliberation preceded the verdict. Thus ended the first big gangland case to reach a jury in Chicago, but there were indications the legal fight to save Brothers was not over, as defense counsel announced they would ask for a new trial, and said they felt confident a rehearing would be granted. They described the result as a compromise. April 17 was fixed as the date for hearing their arguments.

Hope Not Abandoned

"We have by no means given up hope of proving that Brothers had nothing to do with the Lingle murder," said Louis Piquett, one of Brothers' attorneys.

Civic leaders on the other hand, hailed the result as a blow to Chicago gangs, and the prosecuting attorneys said they were satisfied that the verdict was just.

Brothers took the verdict calmly.

JUDGE DECLINES TO TALK WITH CONVICTS

Refuses To Confer with Pair Concerning Penalty for Firing Prison.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 4—Criminal Court Judge C. J. Randall today refused to confer with two Ohio penitentiary convicts who confessed they fired the prison a year ago, resulting in the deaths of 320 prisoners. The convicts, Hugh Gibson and Clinton Grate, had announced they would plead guilty when arraigned before Judge Randall Monday, providing he would guarantee them sentences of death in the electric chair rather than life imprisonment.

Judge Randall said that in his position he could not converse with the men until they come into open court. It was doubted if the judge would accept a guilty plea, in view of the seriousness of the consequences of such a plea.

The judge will name attorneys Monday to represent the men, and he will accept no plea until they have conferred with their lawyers.

O'Dowd-Thatcher Wedding This Morning at 11:55

Miss Mildred O'Dowd became the bride of Earl Thatcher in a wedding this morning at 11:55 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Dowd of 955 Henry street. Mr. Thatcher is the son of Ben Thatcher of Columbus.

Rev. B. Tyler Gates, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church read the single ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and close friends.

The bride wore a gown of turquoise blue crepe fashioned on long lines, with a short jacket of the same material, and lace cape sleeves. Her slippers were of blood kid. Roses and sweet peas fashioned her corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Staley Weidman attended the couple. Mrs. Weidman was in flowered chiffon, with a corsage of sweet peas, tied with green tulle, and black slippers.

Mrs. Thatcher is a graduate of Harding High school in the class of '28 and has been employed at the S. S. Kresge store. Mr. Thatcher is an employe of the Susquehanna Silk Mills.

They left on a wedding trip to Cleveland and the east, and upon their return will be at home at 467 Blaine avenue. For her going-away costume the bride wore brown crepe, with hat, coat, and accessories to correspond.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Knapp of Mansfield were out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Thursday evening Mrs. Oliver Mohrhoff of 855 Sheridan road, entertained with three tables of bridge in honor of the bride. Awards were presented Miss Nell Langdon and Miss Marion Wheeler. The announcement of the approaching marriage was found in the individual corsages of sweet peas for each guest.

The bride-elect's colors of orchid and green were carried out in the decorations for the party. The table at which lunch was served was centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Mohrhoff was assisted in serving by Mrs. Weidman. Mrs. Thatcher was given a personal shower, presented by little Miss Ruth Millisor dressed as a bride.

Carpe Diem Literary Group of Richwood Has Program

RICHWOOD, April 4—A potluck dinner followed the afternoon meeting, Thursday, of the Carpe Diem Literary club at the home of Mrs. Harold Winters, and marked the last meeting of the year. Preceding the dinner, the subject topic of a program was "Dress, Ancient and Modern." "Ancient Dress" was a paper read by Mrs. F. K. McDaniels; "Modern Dress" a paper by Mrs. D. Earl Rhoades.

Members answered roll call by naming old time dress accessories. Other numbers on the program were a vocal trio by Mrs. C. V. Zuspan, Mrs. Howard Temple and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, vocal solo, Mrs. W. E. Beeman; paper, "A Study of Local Health Laws," by Mrs. B. E. Benton, and the club song.

CHILDREN GUESTS

Presbyterian Sunday School Teachers Are Hostesses at Mt. Gilead.

MT GILEAD, April 4—An Easter entertainment for the children of the primary department of the First Presbyterian Sunday school was held at the church Friday afternoon with approximately 50 children attending.

The following teachers were in charge of the entertainment: Mrs. R. T. Andrew, Mrs. J. W. Cook, Mrs. Jesse Bishop, Miss Iris Worthington, Mrs. H. O. Allison, Mrs. C. S. Stevens, Mrs. Daniel Hamill, Mrs. R. K. Glass, Mrs. A. L. Boggs and Mrs. Albert Schuff.

Refreshments were served after the children had participated in a number of games. Rev. Daniel Hamill spoke to the children on the significance of the Cross.

Galion Class Enjoys April Fool Affair

GALION, April 4—Members of the Loyal Workers class of the Baptist church found an illuminated sign reading "Not at Home" hanging before the door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Marshall on N. Market street last night when the class assembled at the Marshall home for its regular monthly meeting. Other signs occupied prominent positions in the home and following the usual business session a program of April Fool games was enjoyed. At the close of the evening a light lunch was served by the hosts.

Just Things

Easter

IT'S a cruel weatherman who predicts rain for Easter for he not only will ruin the glad togs of participants in the annual parade but likewise will spoil the togs of those who would a walking go for the next seven Sundays. At least that is what those who go by the signs claim. And there are those who say it actually happens. But why worry about that at least so far as most of us are concerned, for it's fashionable this year to be nonchalant in the old ones. To be sure we are going to weep buckets of tears with the youngster lucky enough to have a whole new outfit to speak her Easter piece in, if the weatherman decides to turn on the raindrops for who doesn't point with pride, (mentally of course) to their own first platform appearance. It sure was a daisy, if you really want to know. Of course you may have had to start to the scene an hour early in order to divest yourself of the arctics, leggings and mufflers, get your bangs combed out and the hairribbons at the corerct angle, but after all wasn't it the biggest event ever?

Going Back

SOME one quoted Emily Post the other day as inkling that the return of the ruffles, long skirts, puffed sleeves, berthas and other symbol of a decade or so ago, would likely bring back the good old days of blushes, dulcet voices and silver laughter. Does hat mean, do you suppose that we are going to set the stage a la the ood old days when one entertained their best feller in the presence of their forbears who watched every move from their plush-bordered frames and when the adjusting of a tidy was the last gesture of femininity?

MARION WOMEN TO SING

MRS. EARL N. HALE

MRS. CLARENCE RUTHERFORD

THE program of music arranged for the annual Ohio Federation of Women's clubs convention at Youngstown next week; includes two Marion women, Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford of 227 South High street, mezzo-soprano, and Mrs. Earl N. Hale of 381 East Church street, contralto. The convention dates are April 7-10.

Both singers are widely known in music circles. Mrs. Hale was formerly contralto soloist with the famous Westminster choir of Dayton, and accompanied the choir on its first eastern tour. At present she is soloist at First Presbyterian church here.

Mrs. Rutherford has broadcast several times from the Columbus stations and on several occasions was guest soloist at WTAM in Cleveland. She is a charter member of the Marion Lecture-Recital club and was a member of its forerunner, the Morning Musical club.

Last year she sang at the federation convention in Columbus and several years ago, sang at the Daughters of the American Revolution convention here. Mrs. Rutherford has sang in nearly all of Marion's churches and for some time was soloist at St. Paul's Episcopal and Epworth M. E. churches. She studied under Cecil Fanning of Columbus.

Youngstown was Mrs. Hale's home for nine years. She was soloist in several of the city's largest churches, and was an active member of the Monday Musical club.

Mrs. Hale will leave Tuesday morning with Mrs. W. N. Harder, chairman of fine arts in the general federation, Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, health chairman in the state organization and Mrs. H. K. Mouser, state chairman of music and in charge of the program for the convention.

While in Youngstown, Mrs. Rutherford will be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Williams, former Marion residents. She expects to leave Sunday or Monday for the convention city.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Rutherford will sing two of Mrs. Mouser's own compositions, "The Open Door," the words of which were written by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, and "Her Step Is a Light Step," with words from a poem by B. Y. Williams of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Hale, Truitt Brown of Kenton, tenor, who has sung here frequently, Mrs. Besse Stevenson of Chillicothe, soprano and Worth Kramer, of Columbus, baritone, who has sung here on several occasions will sing Cadman's newest song cycle, "The White Enchantment," on the convention program Friday night.

have never ceased to be thank- ful that I refused to move from her bedside, for, just before she died, she recovered consciousness and sanity for a few minutes, just long enough to say, "I knew you'd come, Daddy," and to smile at me.

And then she died, and all that was best in me died too, and I became a living vengeance, a monomaniac, with but one thought, one idea, one purpose.

First I realized the large property that remained to me, and having turned it all into cash, deposited it at my bank.

I then elaborately set about the business of disappearing by means of widely spread reports of my apparent suicide. My hat, my overcoat and my suicide's letter of farewell were found in my motor car on the bank of the river that ran near my house, which I had recently left forever.

I was completely successful.

The erstwhile millionaire, John Dacre Waye Vanderleur St. Clair, disappeared absolutely from human ken, and in the underworld of Chicago, unobtrusively appeared a somewhat mysterious recruit in the upper ranks of crookdom—a bearded, flash, moneyed rascal, one of whose aliases was John Waye.

Before long, I was something of a figure in the underworld of Chicago, and a friend and protege of "Uncle" himself.

The chief of police at Chicago, in the days when I was in search of a kidnaped daughter, had told me that, sooner or later, "Uncle" was bound to know something—and probably everything—about the business, adding that it would be perfectly useless to approach Uncle direct.

He promised, however, to put one of his best men on the job of hanging around Uncle's speakeasy —which was in reality nothing more nor less than a crooks' club.

Through the good offices of an excellent crook whom I had employed before I disappeared—and who, in the bearded ruffian that now sought him out, did not recognize his erstwhile employer—I steadily enlarged my circle of undesirable but desired acquaintances and sedulously explored this underworld.

It was a horrible life. I loathed every hour of it, and nothing but my fanatical yearning for vengance enabled me to endure it.

From time to time, when I heard some scoundrel narrating the details of some big swindle, robbery, blackmail, or kidnaping, hope would revive and I would follow up the clew.

Sometimes it was literally and physically a case of following, when I heard of some gang operating in a line of business, the details of which seemed to suggest the methods of the gang who had killed my child.

Once established at Uncle's, I learned a great deal, and it was there, one night, that I heard a slightly intoxicated female bemoaning, in maudlin and rambling manner, the long absence of her partner in joy and crime, at S———, where he and his pals were on to a fine, but delicate, thing in blackmail, combined with a kidnaping which means a fat wad either by ransom or white slavery.

To S——— forthwith I went.

• • •

Can a diamond—or any other inanimate object—"be 'unlucky"?

I suppose it would be quite understandable, and possibly excusable if I had, after all, become more or less superstitious with regard to the 'Curse" of the Unsetting Sun, or rather the luck—always ill-luck —of this stone, one of the world's greatest diamonds.

However genuinely one might laugh at the idea of there being any sort of connection between my father's possession of the Unsetting Sun and the terrible death of his wife; or between my possession of it, and my loss of my wife, it is undeniable that, had I never owned the famous jewel, Rosemary would not have been kidnaped.

And again, had it never been mine, that which now happened to me—quite early in my new career —would never have occurred, for I should never have gone to S———, on the trail of Rosemary's murderers. . . .

Tramping the streets of that city, late one night, going from one crook's haunt to another—I was suddenly aware of a man who, turning a corner, sped toward me, running swiftly and silently at top speed.

Seeing me, he dashed across the road and continued his headlong flight.

It is curious to think that this unknown man, whom I only saw for a few seconds, and whose face I never saw, changed the course of my life.

Turning the corner round which he had just come, I dismissed him from my thoughts and went on my way, until, beneath a lamppost, I was reminded of him by the sight of an open pocketbook or moneywallet.

Picking it up, I saw it was the sort of thing in which a wealthy man might carry bills of the larger denominations. It was empty, and I jumped to the conclusion that it had been emptied by the swift and silent runner as he ran. Holding it in my hand, I looked up and down the long, silent and deserted street and then walked on.

What should I do with the thing? Throw it away? Keep it in case I read or heard something that might give me a clew to its ownership?

Suddenly, I saw, lying beneath the next lamp-post, the huddled form of a man. Hurrying forward and kneeling by his side, I found that he was elderly, very well-dressed—and apparently dead. His hat lay in the gutter and from the back of his head a little stream of blood trickled.

Raising his head and shoulders from the ground, to see if it were possible to render first aid, I decided that he was dead. His heart had ceased to beat, he did not breathe, and his upturned eyes were fixed and glazed.

Lowering the body to the pavement again, I picked up the wallet from where I had laid it down. Perhaps it might contain a name and address.

As, kneeling beside the body, I searched the pocketbook, I was almost paralyzed by a tremendous blow which, falling upon my left shoulder close to the neck and sending me sprawling on my face, seemed to knock the breath from my body and thought from my brain . . . .

To Be Continued.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. Bright and bammy for a wonder. I got up and let Jubilee down by his rope and he was wondering why I was singing Old Black Joe and grinning like a jack lantern. Dogs aren't so very brite. Jubilee is, but even Jubilee don't know Saturday from any other day. He always looks supprized when I don't go to school.

When I had got the milking done, and the milk strained we were all going to hike out for the pasture and the woods before the girls came if we could, because it was kinda warm and maybe the creek would be warm enough to go swimming in. We knowed it wouldn't be, but there wouldn't be no harm in getting Banty or some of the littler kids to try it, but Youniss and Maggie and Feeble came whilst I was feeding my face, so they had to tag alone.

The creek was full of water up to the top of the banks, and the pasture was sloppy and muddy, and the new grass hadn't begun to commence to grow, and if there had been any snakes they would of had to of been water snakes. So after a while we went home.

Banty fell off the buttment at the side of the road. He said someone pushed him, but I didn't see them do it, and the culvert wasn't quite full so he went through all right, and we played the rest of the day on our acting pole.

When we were eating supper, my unkle kept his eyes on his plate and didn't say anything, and when we were about done my mother asted him if he had anything for her and said the stores was open Saturday nights till nine, and he put his hand in his pocket and pulled out a half a dollar and laid it by her plate and said that was all he had but she was welcome, and she said to him didn't he get paid, and he said he got twenty-four dollars, but tomorrow being Easter reminded him that he was plum out of silk underwaer, so he had to get him some and that was all he had left. When he said that my mother busted out crying and rushed into her room, and I got up and went in and she was laying on her bed crying harder than I ever say anyone cry, and I laid down by her and put my arm around her and told her to not cry, for I would be growed up sometime, and she kissed me and I cried too. Then I heard my father saying he was out of silk underwear and always had been, and my grandfather said he had never been in any, and my ant said she bet it wasn't his fault, and I could see she was sticking up for my unkle, and I heard the door slam, and when my mother and I went out, my unkle had went somewhere. My grandfather took out his pocketbook and paid my mother twenty-five dollars, and she kissed him and cried and laughed and he patted her head. I am glad I'm not an unkle. I'd rather be a grandfather. That was certainly a joke on my mother. A hairy kind of a joke.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Realizes That She Cannot Send the Letter to Jack Bickett.

MY fountain pen trailed into the annoying faint marks which signal the end of the ink and when I had refilled it, I read over my letter to my brother-cousin, Jack Bickett, in which I had told him of the treachery of the "wilderness woman," Ruth Allen, the sister of his associate in the South American enterprise.

I had not minced words. I told myself, but then; neither had she in her cool proposal that Katherine should give her husband up to her. I began to write again with the feeling that no matter what I might say I could not equal the venom of Ruth Allen's letter.

"Katherine does not know that I am writing this," I went on. "Indeed, she made me promise that I would not show the letter to you I am keeping the letter of that promise, for the original is locked in my desk, and I have not exaggerated the woman's language, but have given you a true account of her venomous effrontery.

"Jack Bickett, Personal"

"May I ask, that for my sake, your own, and Katherine's—you do not show the letter of mine to Mrs. Allen, or let her know that you have received it? This will be hard, I know, and I fully sympathize with the impulse you will have to tell her what you think, but she is not worth anger. She is one of those persons, I am sure, who revel in rows, and I trust you will not give her the opportunity to indulge herself in one."

I smiled to myself grimly as I penned the words. If Ruth Allen did get hold of this letter, she would not particularly enjoy it.

"I do not think Katherine will ever tell you that she has received this letter unless you speak of it yourself," I wrote, "As for her reactions to it—I am not betraying those. You know your wife—you can imagine what she is thinking.

"I am counting on you not to write her that I have told you about this. When you come home I will tell her that I wrote you, but not until then. But, Jack, if you value your happiness, you will write to Katherine, telling her of the letters you have sent her and that you have received none from her—I am banking upon those two premises and the hypothesis that Mrs. Allen could tell you where all the missing letters are. And you will also see to it that you mail this letter yourself without her aid.

"Please forgive me for what you may consider unwarranted interference with your affairs. But—I cannot help it. "Affectionately,

"MARGARET."

I read the letter over, inclosed it in an envelope which I typed, "Jack Bickett, personal," and then inclosed the sealed envelope in the letter which I had written to Miss Halkett. I sealed and stamped it and put it in a little rack on top of my desk, where I always keep letters for the post until there is a chance of sending them to the village. Then, with my brain approving my action, and my conscience as fiercely disapproving, I went out into the hall, pausing at the door of the upper veranda for a word with Katherine.

"I find I can't rest in my room—there's no breeze on that side," I told her. "I'm going down to stretch out in the hammock on the side veranda."

It was with an effort that I kept my voice steady for she had not heard me as I came along the hall, and I had seen her bending over my baby's carriage with a look upon her face which caught at my heart as if it were a clutching hand.

Adoration was in that look, as well as the tragedy of frustrated motherhood, which I knew was hers. And I was not exactly proud of my reaction to the sight of her emotion.

In Katherine's eyes as she turned them toward me, was—or did I fancy it?—a look of confusion, almost of embarrassment. But if it were there, it was gone as quickly as it had appeared, and it was with her usual composed voice and mien that she answered me.

"A most excellent idea," she said. "Your nurse fully approves—that is if you really lie down when you get down there, and don't snap into your usual stunt of furnishing steam for the whole household."

Madge Changes Her Mind

"You're mixed up in your seasons," I told her lightly as I turned away. "there's no steam needed this weather." I was ashamed of the banal jest, but I felt like snatching at anything to cover my astonishment at the rapidity with which she had recovered her poise. If I had not seen her agitation I should never have dreamed that less than half an hour had passed since I had seen her shaken with grief, humiliation and rage over the venomous letter which Ruth Allen had written her.

"Trust you to find some excuse for generating it nevertheless," she called after me, and I found myself wondering, a bit shamfacedly if behind Katherine's words there might be a secret interpretation of that "steam furnishing" which would be spelled "officiousness."

It was a thought which lingered with me as I stretched out in the couch hammock on the side veranda, for I found myself suddenly fatigued and thoroughly let down in body and spirit. And when, two hours later, I awakened from a refreshing nap, it was the first thing which came to my mind. And suddenly, like a flash of sheet-lightning, there came to me the conviction, that, no matter what happened, I could not send that letter to Jack Bickett.

"Leatherwood God" Legend Sets Sunday for "Return" Prophesied Century Ago

Assembly of Curious Folk Expected in Little Ohio Cemetery.

By The Associated Press.

BARNESVILLE, O., April 4—Perhaps no one believes the "Leatherwood God" will come back as he promised a hundred years ago.

But it is said that some, shaken between doubt and uncertainty, will go to the little churchyard in Leatherwood valley tomorrow—out of curiosity, no doubt—just to be on hand should the "return" take place.

The legend of the Leatherwood "Messiah" started back in the spring of 1831. The so-called "Messiah" was one Joseph C. Dylks. Rev. John Crum was holding a series of services in the heart of Leatherwood valley, near Salesville. The meetings had been going on for a week, and a large crowd had gathered in the little log church.

Mr. Crum was in the midst of an inspiring sermon. The audience was tense and an air of fervor pervaded the company. Then there was a startled cry of "Salvation!" by a voice from the audience.

A stranger, faultlessly groomed, and obviously out of place in an assemblage clothed in homespuns and coonskin caps, took the floor. Men rose to their feet. Women screamed and children fled from the cabin.

Minister Silenced

The presence of the "man from the outside" disconcerted Mr. Crum so that he sat down, startled into silence.

Within a few weeks, the legend goes, Dylks held sway in the community. Congregations were torn asunder. Converts for miles around flocked to hear his preachings. His fame even spread to the national capital, where a few over-zealous senators promised an investigation. However, it never materialized.

Some of the more thoughtful citizens were nettled at Dylks' assumption of the self-imposed title of "Leatherwood God." They resented his assertions that he was the Holy Ghost and Christ in one. His promises of miracles brought strong demands that they be performed in the presence of impartial witnesses.

Needless to say, none was ever performed.

Then indignation spread, and Dylks was discredited. He fled and was hunted for days through forest and valley. Later he was arrested and tried for bigotry before a justice of the peace, but was acquitted.

He then gathered about him three "disciples," who took the names of "Silas," "Peter" and "Paul." The four set out on foot for Philadelphia, and a month later reached the "city of brotherly love."

"Silas" and "Peter," told to go into the city by a different route and to meet their companions at a spot "where the brightest light from heaven shone," found no spot brighter than another. Two months later "Silas" and "Peter," weary and penniless, returned to their homes and declared Dyks to be an imposter.

Tell of Promised Return

A year later, some of Dylks' followers announced that their "God" had appeared to them one night, shrouded in a brilliant garment of light, and that with a promise to return to the valley church a century later to claim his people, he had been whirled upward to heaven in a column of smoke.

The little cemetery where the log-cabin church once stood, now surrounds a modern house of worship. There is nothing to mark it as the appointed spot for the return of a "Messiah."

But though none will confess a belief in the promised coming," older residents of the valley are expected to go there tomorrow—Easter Sunday,—and, gathered in little groups upon the hillsides overlooking the cemetery, to watch for the promised event.

Perhaps, as he promised a century ago, Dylks will come back to the little cemetery, riding a "white horse, snorting with fire and smoke."

If he does return, there will be at least a few watchers there to welcome him.

Centennial Anniversary Recalls Happening That Stirred Rural Community.

The Passing of the Codes

By the Schaffner-Queen Co.

Time was—and not so long ago—when many a business man offered his wares for sale at prices that he alone could read and understand. His methods betokened an inclination to disregard entirely what the future might hold in store for him.

A visit to his establishment would reveal price tags marked only in codes. He and his assistants were the custodians of the code's secrets, and they would decipher them into selling prices that were high, low or medium—according to their ideas of the customer's ability to pay.

The man who disdained to use such a method was soon the recipient of the greater patronage. The public recognized his desire to secure confidence instead of destroying it.

The reputable, reliable funeral director uses only plainly marked prices that all may read and understand. You can place your fullest confidence in such a man and in his capacity for serving you fairly and understandingly.

REQUEST FOR BOND ISSUE IS APPROVED

County Asks Permission To Sell Securities for Relief Work.

Application of the county of Marion for permission of the state tax commission to issue $43,000 in bonds for poor relief purposes has been approved, according to United Press dispatches from Columbus today.

The state welfare department is required to pass upon the question of whether the relief is needed before the bonds can be issued.

Marion county was one of the first to file application for permission to issue relief bonds under terms of the Pringle-Roberts act, recently passed by the general assembly. The act permits the issuing of short term bonds, all of which must be matured by 1937, for relief purposes, and sets a limit in the amount of bonds at one twentieth of one per cent of the tax duplicate.

By issuing bonds for relief purposes, operating funds which ordinarily would have to be used for relief work are available for other purposes, county officials point out.

CITY BRIEFS

Named to Council—Dwight Bargar, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bargar of Bellefontaine avenue, was one of 60 freshmen at Ohio State university to be selected on the student council. The selection was made at the opening of the spring quarter.

Jocelyn Lee Gets Divorce and Alimony

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 4—As the smoke cleared today from a barrage of charges and counter charges by Jocelyn Lee, film actress, and Luther Reed, her director husband, Miss Lee held a divorce, custody of their two children and an order for $100 a week alimony.

Superior Judge Joseph P. Sproul yesterday decided Reed was not guilty of infidelity and that the flame haired actress' conduct was not above reproach. Many of the charges were not proved, he said.

PROVIDES MURDER CLUE

By United Press.

NORWALK, O., April 4—Reports that the body of a murder victim who was found in a ditch near Wakeman was that of John Wolgast of Cadillac, Mich., a brother of Ad Wolgast, one-time lightweight champion, were investigated today by detectives. A truck driver who viewed the body in a Wakeman morgue said he believed the victim was Wolgast.

FORMER LAW FIRM SUES FOR $740 FEE

Ochs and Roller Ask Court To Grant Judgment Against L. L. Aller.

Attorney fees aggregating $740 are sought in a petition filed in common pleas court this morning against L. L. Aller, contractor, by Theodore B. Ochs and Benjamin F. Roller, formerly the law firm of Ochs & Roller.

The petition sets forth that the plaintiffs, while in partnership, represented Aller in the municipal and common pleas courts, court of appeals and the state supreme court. Most of the services were given in Aller's unsuccessful injunction suit against the city for awarding a contract for resurfacing Main street to a higher bidder.

On an account aggregating $1,120 Aller has paid $380, leaving a balance due of $740, it is cited in the petition.

A temporary injunction forbidding the Erie railroad to dig up a lot for the purpose of laying drainage tile near the Union depot was made permanent by an order of Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield this morning on agreement of the parties involved. The injunction was asked by Ida R. Kraus and Anna M. Fairbanks.

The action was filed Dec. 15. Frank Wiedemann represented the plaintiffs. The law firm of Guthery, Strellitz & Guthery is counsel for the railroad.

Divorce Granted

Divorce from Lillian L. Graff was awarded William W. Graff in common pleas court this morning. He charged gross neglect in a petition filed Feb. 16. They were married here Oct. 20, 1928. They have no children. L. E. Myers is attorney for the plaintiff. The suit was uncontested.

Christians of All Nations Prepare Easter Programs

Impressive Ceremonies To Mark Day Throughout America; Machine Guns Guard Against Threatened Trouble in Jerusalem.

By The Associated Press

Along the avenues—among the stalls and carts of market districts—and along the babbling sidewalks of Main street—in all America, Easter comes tomorrow.

In Piccadilly, too; on the Venetian canals; and Unter den Linden and in Paris; in the shadow of tenements where bread is a luxury; and in green-rolling meadow lands and where they feed milk to the dogs—Easter comes.

In San Francisco thousands will wind up the foot trails of Mt. Davison to stand beneath the lighted cross that tops it and greet the Easter sun. Organ music will flow to them from below on telephone wires—and the ceremonies will be broadcast to those who greet the anniversary of the risen Christ in their homes.

Children in Program

Four hundred white-robed children, grouped in a Greek cross, will send their voices ringing through Hollywood (Calif.) bowl in "Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today."

In Red Rock canyon, southeast of Bakersfield, Calif.—in the heart of the desert flower area—Easter will come with ceremonies; and the traditional services, conducted annually since 1909, will be held at Mt. Rouidioux, at the edge of Los Angeles.

Forty thousand people—if the day is fair—will crowd "God's Acre" at Winston Salem, N. C., where Easter Sunday has been the occasion of special ceremonies since 1773. There will be chorals at 2 a. m.

And in Jerusalem, in the shadow of Gethesame where Christ hung crucified against a black sky, Easter will be celebrated under the muzzles of machine guns with Easter music provided by the rumble of armored cars. There is fear by the authorities that trouble may arise between the pro-Mufti and anti-Mufti forces from Hebron during the Moslem feast of Nabi Mousa, which is being observed even as the Christian Easter.

Hoovers Plans for Day

In Washington, the President of the United States will attend a Masonic and a Quaker service. New York will observe the day with high hat, flashing fashions, elaborate church services—and thousands gaping at fish in the aquarium, at snorting ferries in the rivers and at animals in the zoo.

Those who wish to be ostentatious will pay as much as $5 for orchids—while others, broken by a winter of fruitless quest for work, will dine in the bread lines.

It's Over Now and Annie Says "I Thank You!"

Little Annie Rooney's birthday party is now a happy event in her memory and her friends in Marion and vicinity had much to do with making the event even more glorious than Annie anticipated.

More than 100 readers of The Star sent greetings and all whose names and addresses were available have received cards of thanks from Annie in return. There were some birthday messages that bore no names and addresses and consequently these had to go unanswered. But these friends, whoever they are and no matter where they live, may feel sure that their interest in Annie's happiness and welfare is thoroughly appreciated.

The greetings, some on the daintiest birthday cards imaginable, others in letter form, came not only from Marion but from town and farm homes in nearby counties, showing that Annie's popularity is by no means limited to any one locality.

31 MOTORISTS GET TICKETS THIS WEEK

Twenty-One Offenders Fined at Traffic Court Session Here.

Marion police urged stricter observance of traffic regulations after 31 motorists had been summoned to traffic court yesterday afternoon. Double parking, alley parking and parking in front of hotels were the particular offenses committed by motorists during the week.

Judge William R. Martin fined 21 of the offenders, five of whom paid. Ten others were excused. Clerk of municipal court, John Powell, said that all traffic violators not answering on date of traffic court would be fined and summoned to appear.

Summons issued this week included six for double parking, six for alley parking, three for infringing on safety zones, three for hotel parking, three for parking too near a fire hydrant, six for improper parking and four for improper lights.

Cardington Pastor To Speak Here Monday

Rev. E. M. Burroughs of Cardington will deliver the principal address at a meeting of the Brotherhood of the First United Brethren church Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Community house. Refreshments will be served at the close of a program which has been arranged as follows:

Song, "Onward Christian Soldiers;" devotionals led by Rev. L. E. Reebel; song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds;" duet, "The Bum," Virgil Geer and Billy Lucas; song, "Medley of Southern Melodies." Male chorus; entertainment by E. R. Bondley; address by Rev. Burroughs.

THE Marion recreational baseball commission last night dealt a heavy blow to the practice of ineligible competitors taking part in Sunday school recreation ball here. Former rules concerning eligibility in Sunday school leagues have been flouted in many cases by both managers and players. The adoption of the new regulation concerning eligibility, found elsewhere on this page, should prove considerable of a deterrent to future violations.

* * *

Feeling that in many instances the manager of the team on which an ineligible man is playing is not to blame so much as the individual who plays knowing at the time he is ineligible, the commission has revised the rules in order to provide punishment to both the team and player, instead of only the team. Instead of permitting only the forfeiture of the game in which the player in question participated the board will suspend the offending player for any length of time it deems necessary.

* * *

The new rules is a good one. Players will think twice in the future before allowing themselves to participate while ineligible. The prospect of sitting on the bench for several weeks because of a violation is not likely to be conducive to disrespect for the rules. The commission has made it plain that no leniency will be shown offenders of this rule. It looks bad for a lot of players who in the past have played even though not eligible.

Marion recreation ball has been deprived of its leading pitcher of the 1930. Roy Rice, it is reported, has departed the city to reside in the neighboring city of Mansfield. Rice was the leading exponent last season of the art of throwing bad balls to batters and making them think they could hit them. His departure from the game here removes one of the best hurlers, and the hardest fighters from the sport. Every one will miss him but probably Earl Smart, manager of the Epworth Seniors will be hardest hit. Rice was Smart's ace slab artist.

* * *

Apparently some of the recreation ball players of the city either have a premonition they are about due for a slip downward in the batting averages or else they are trying to hang up some kind of a new record for clouting balls out of the various city ball parks. A petition has been making the rounds recently, asking the commission to authorize the use of larger and longer bats. It might be interesting to know the man who is credited with launching the petition was one of the leading hitters of the city last year.

* * *

It might be even more interesting to note that the proposal stands about one chance in a million of going through. A bat such as the petition asks would probably cause an epidemic of dizziness to crop out among the outfielders before the season is completed. Said dizziness being directly caused by watching balls sail over the fences of the outfield.

Veterans Eliminated in Invitation Net Tourney

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, April 4 — Beaten down by two youngsters who snatched from them the doubles title of the New Orleans Country club invitation tennis tournament, a pair of Davis cup veterans today were bent upon taking charge of the singles championship.

George Lott and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, yesterday lost the doubles final to John Sutton and Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Calif., by a score of 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Sutter, national intercollegiate champion who left Tulane university this year to battle his way up as a Davis cup prospect, meets Van Ryn today in the singles semi-final. Should Sutter defeat Van Ryn he goes into the final against Lott who in the other semi-final match already has eliminated vines.

Frisco Seals Have Good Record Against Majors

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 4 — If the results of the spring exhibition games played by major league baseball clubs mean anything of importance, the San Francisco Seals have a strong argument to back up the occasional talk of forming a third big league on the Pacific coast. But the Seals must share the honors among minor league clubs in their games against the majors with Atlanta of the Southern league and Indianapolis of the American Association.

Playing against three strong big league organizations, the Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers, San Francisco has won eight games and lost but two. Atlanta has done even better, winning all of its three games against major league clubs while Indianapolis has won four out of five to equal the Seals' average.

In addition to his ability on the diamond, Mallon, Red Sox rookie, is an accomplished crooner. During the past winter his tenor voice was a regular feature from the municipal station at Dallas, Texas.

Strategy of Rockne Often Turned Tide of Victory Toward Notre Dame Team

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles depicting the human side of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's great coach.

BY LOREN DISNEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, grew dark as night neared. It had been mucky all afternoon, as a drizzly November rain fell.

Out on the field two teams had been battling doggedly, futilely, all afternoon. Under the mud of one set of uniforms was the purple of Notre Dame, on the other the gold of Army.

Neither team had been defeated. Victory for the Army meant a strong claim to the football championship of 1930. Victory for Notre Dame meant the next to last successful step in a vicious "suicidal" schedule.

Strategy Scores

The teams were battling near mid-field as the fourth quarter arrived. Knute Rockne made a substitution for Notre Dame—a lanky six-footer was sent in at left end. It was John O'Brien, famous pass receiver. The Army secondary defense edged over to keep him covered.

Frank Carideo, All-American quarterback, barked a signal. The backs swung right, leading Marchie Schwartz.

Marchie swept through tackle, and this time there was no Army secondary to pull him down. He was off on another of his famous "climax" runs, one which resulted in an ultimate 7 to 6 victory for the Notre Dame Ramblers.

Knute K. Rockne, Notre Dame's great coach, had fooled the boys again—pulled victory from a contest that appeared hopelessly tied, and given his boys their chance for a clean slate in what was to be his last season.

Worked As Expected

In sending O'Brien in at that moment, Rockne, called the greatest football strategist and psychologist the game has ever known figured his result as neatly as any behaviorist in a laboratory.

O'Brien, it may be recalled, was sent into the Army game back in 1928 in another dramatic game—caught a pass, won the game for Notre Dame, and was then pulled out. "One-Play" OBrien, he was called.

Rockne knew the Army wouldn't soon forget that moment. He knew that the Army backs would see that O'Brien was amply covered in a game that needed just one break for a decision. His neat reasoning followed to its logical conclusion, as Schwartz dashed through the unguarded right side for a touchdown.

They're Still Dizzy

Shortly afterwards the working of the Rockne psychology again was manifest in the game with Southern California. All through the season Rockne had given out interviews holding the lateral pass in light contempt. He had said he doubted that it was really of any value as an offensive weapon.

However, in the game against Southern California, Notre Dame lateral passed the Trojans dizzy. It was the only game during the season that the lateral pass featured in the Notre Dame attack.

As a general thing, Rockne worked on his opponents in two ways—he always preferred to create an "under-dog" role for his Ramblers, and he had one fixed offensive play as an over-hanging threat.

Used Off-Tackle Plays

Called the greatest exponent of the forward pass in the game, the Rockne system in reality was based fundamentally on an off-tackle dash usually to the right. Notre Dame opponents knew that the majority of plays were going to be directed there, and experience showed reinforcements were needed to stop the sweep of the guard-led interference.

This constant threat on the right tackle left Notre Dame foes in a mental quandary.

If a shift was made to meet the off-tackle play, Notre Dame smashed at the weakened section of the line. If not, the tackle was smashed. A classic example was afforded in the 1927 Notre Dame-Army game. "Biff" Jones, Army coach, had his center move over to the right side of line to back up the tackle.

Another Victory

Chris Flanagan, Notre Dame half-back, made repeated gains through center by cutting back, after feinting toward right tackle. The result was a Notre Dame victory.

Rockne always felt that a team fought better in an under-dog role. This was one of the primary reasons for his frequent gloomy statements as to his team's prospects for the year.

Just a short time before his death, Rockne said he believed his boys would be lucky if they weren't trimmed three or four times this season. He made similar predictions regarding his great teams of 1929 and '30.

He believed that an under-dog team fought better, and that if his opponents entered the game feeling cheesty they couldn't get going during the early stages.

Even when illness confined him to a wheelchair, Knute Rockne couldn't be kept from the field. In this instance he was directing the Notre Dame team to a victory over Carnegie Tech.

International Village To House Olympic Stars

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, April 4—An international village, a modern boom town not unlike those of California's gold rush days, will spring up here in the summer of 1932 for the Olympic games.

This plan, new to the cosmopolitan classic, was announced today by the organizing committee for the international contests. It will be the first time since the games of ancient Greece, when participants pitched their tents on the plains of Elis, that the athletes will be centrally housed, fed and entertained.

The town will be created a few miles west of Los Angeles proper, overlooking the Pacific ocean and only a few minutes ride from the stadium where most of the contests will be held.

It will have a telephone exchange, post office and banking facilities. Some 3,000 persons will live on the tract, about one-half mile square.

Women athletes will be housed, fed and entertained in the residance halls of the University of Southern California.

Each village residence will house four persons. Design of the streets will make the competitors feel at home. Spain, the Orient, Switzerland, Germany, France and other countries sending athletes will have architectural representation.

A special dining room will be constructed for teams of each country. Entertainment will include motion pictures in native tongue and music peculiar to each nation.

The village will disappear soon after the Olympics end August 14.

WOOD SEEKS RECORD

By United Press

NEW YORK, April 4—Gar Wood, America's premier motor-boat racing driver, whose record of 102.266 miles per hour was broken Thursday by Kaye Don of England, was enroute to Miami Beach, Fla., where he will attempt to retain the record.

Johnny Kilbane, former feather-weight champion, thinks Tommy Loughran should become the heavyweight king. Tommy should cultivate slugging he says.

Sale of Tickets Booms for Race Classic in May

APRIL—Automobile racing—for years the largest crowd drawing magnet in sports—continues to maintain its popularity in spite of a financial depression, be it real or mental.

Already every state in the union is included in the seat reservations which have been filled for the annual renewal of the International Motor Speedway in May.

An unprecedented demand for pasteboards from the New England states has swelled the early advance sale to a new mark, according to Miss Eloise Dallenbach who has been in charge of the mail order ticket sale since the first race was held here in 1911.

"In view of pessimistic business reports from so many quarters," she explains with a tone of surprise, "I was unusually elated when a recapitulation of orders on hand exceeded the record of last year, which was a record breaker for race attendance.

Sales Increase

"Industrial centers have increased their purchases and the only noticeable lull in the advance business is in Indiana and especially in Indianapolis, the very home of the speedway. However this is not unusual for the local people are so nearly a part of the event that they persistently are the last of the ticket purchasers."

There is every indication, according to T. E. "Pop" Myers, general manager of the Indianapolis speed plant, that the crowd in attendance at the coming event will exceed last year's 168,000 for a new American sports attending crowd record.

Although there are numerous special trains already assured from Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and other large centers, an unusually brisk demand for parking space at advantageous points around the infield of the two and one-half mile speed oval indicates that there will be another increase this year in the number of race goers who will come here by automobile.

Can't Wait to Order

Seats for the Indianapolis race went on sale January 12, nearly five months before the event and earlier than for any other sporting event in America. Money for thousands of dollars worth of seats had been held in escrow here until the opening day of the sale. Some of the money for seats was received the day after last year's race which was won by Billy Arnold in a front wheel Hartz-Miller Special, owned by Harry Hartz who three times finished second and twice fourth in Indianapolis races.

C. A. Rudy, of Indianapolis, again this year received the first tickets for the coming race. His reservation for tickets, accompanied by money order was received at the track while the 1930 race was being run.

NAMES THREATS

Eugene Homans Selects Probable Amateur Golf Winner

By The Associated Press

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4—Eugene Homans, who trailed only Bobby Jones in the national amateur at Merion last year, selects George Voigt, and Charlie Seavers as the real threats for the 1931 crown.

Homans, Englewood's bespectacled amateur, is here to defend his North and South diadem, won in 1930.

"Seavers and Voigt to win," he said. "Voigt is one of the best in the country and is playing fine now, while Seavers is a wonderful prospect."

Phil Perkins, the former British king, who has played great golf in Florida during the winter is another who drew praise from the country's ranking amateur, now that Jones has retired.

Homans named George Dunlop, the intercollegiate titleholder; Don Moe, Dr. O. F. Willing, Harrison Johnson and Maurice McCarthy as next best in line.

Forty-Four Entered in Indoor Tennis Tourney

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., April 4—Forty four players were entered in the men's event and thirty five in the junior event of the eleventh annual western indoor tennis tournament opening here today.

Junior singles held away today in the preliminary rounds, with the night scheduled to see some of the men's singles run off.

The women's singles division was eliminated from the tournament because of the small number of entries. Most of the out-of-town players will not arrive until the middle of next week.

LES CANADIENS WIN OPENING BATTLE IN STANLEY CUP SERIES

Defeat Chicago Black Hawks Despite Loss of Several Good Players.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 4—Around 17,000 Chicago hockey fans today had a good idea of why Les Canadiens of Montreal are national league champions, and are defending their right to hold the Stanley cup.

They got their idea last night in the opening match of the five game series for possession of the historic cup, Hockey's greatest prize, in which the flying Frenchmen, their small squad further reduced by injuries to two stars, defeated the swift Chicago Black Hawks, 2 to 1, in the Chicago stadium.

Les Canadiens, forced to save every ounce of energy if they hope to retain possession of the cup, demonstrated they are able to make an extremely good try. Letting the Hawks whose forte is speed and a never ceasing attack, skate themselves into a state of panic, the Frenchmen laid back, waited for breaks, and cashed in on two of them. The rest of the time they played the most brilliant defensive game seen on Chicago ice this season, turning back furious thrusts by Johnny Gottselig, Mush Murch, Vic Dee Jardins, Vic Ripley and the rest of the Hawk wingmen.

THEATER NEWS AND REVIEWS

BEBE DANIELS TO PLAY LEAD ROLE IN OHIO PICTURE

"My Past" Title of Picture To Show Here Starting Sunday.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

BEBE DANIELS stars in "My Past," at the Ohio Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The picture was made from the unsigned biography, "Ex-Mistress," and if it had followed the book would never have passed the Ohio board of censors.

Opposite her is her husband, Ben Lyon, and prominent in the cast are Lewis Stone, Joan Blondell and Natalie Moorhead.

Miss Daniels is one of Hollywood's few feminine aviation enthusiasts. Lyon is a licensed pilot. Miss Daniels is an excellent swimmer, fencer and tennis player.

She holds the distinction of having been the world's youngest theatrical manager. When she was 11, and appearing on the stage in Belasco's "The Squaw Man," the child labor law interefered and a grown-up was placed in her part. This so impaired the box office business that the little girl had to be made a partner in the firm. She continued to play her role in order to protect her own production interests.

NORMA SHTARER COMING TO PALACE

Another of Ursula Parrott's books, "Strangers May Kiss," has been pictorialized and comes to the Palace Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday starring Norma Shearer. Now that Irving Thalberg, Jr., has arrived and is "doing nicely," his fond mother has returned to the screen.

Press sheets for the picture show Norma in some new and devastating clothes, and she is one of the women of the screen best suited to displaying creations to their best advantage. Adrian designed her clothes.

Irene Rich

Bebe Daniels

A cast including Robert Montgomery, Neil Hamilton, Marjorie Rambeau, Irene Rich and Hale Hamilton play in support.

It is timely and interesting to know that the endeared Knute Rockne's famous double-shift of gridiron fame was adapted to chorus routines by "Cowboy" Apel in staging the cabaret numbers in the picture. Requiring a routine that would fit into the football atmosphere of the episode, he studied the Rockne double-shift in slow motion films and then created a chorus number with the same action and footwork.

JACK HOLT COMING IN "SUBWAY EVPRESS"

"Subway Express," one of the hits of the Broadway stage, has been screned and opens at the Marion Sunday for three days.

Jack Holt, seen recently in his best picture in some time, "The Last Parade," heads the cast. Aileen Pringle is the woman in this murder mystery. Included in the cast are Jason Robards, Alan Roscoe, Fred Kelsey and Selmer Jackson.

Eva Kay Flint and Martha Madison are the authors of "Subway Express." Jack Holt has played over 200 roles in his career on the screen.

The stage settings for this play, with its action on a New York subway express, was highly commended by theatrical magazines, and Columbia pictures, with the added realism possible through sound and dialogue, have endeavored to make the talking product as realistic, if not more so than the stage production

MRS. SARAH WILSON CLAIMED BY DEATH

Funeral Services for Marion Woman To Be Held Monday.

Mrs. Sarah Wilson, 63, of 281 Patten street, a resident of Marion for the last 22 years, died at her home yesterday at 9 p. m. She had been ill of complications for more than a year.

She was a member of the Emma Berger Bible class and the Women's Missionary society of Calvary Evangelical church. She was born Jan. 29, 1868, in Richland county to William and Louisa Morehead Rose, both of Richland county. Her first marriage was to George Bodley and a second marriage was to Clinton Wilson.

Surviving her are her children, G. H. Bodley of 251 Hane avenue, W. W. Bodley of 281 Patten street and Miss Myrtle Wilson of 281 Patten street. The surviving grandchildren are Miss Mary Bodley of South State street, Miss Eloise Bodley of 251 Hane avenue and Walter S. Bodley of Akron.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the home and at 1:30 p. m. at Calvary Evangelical church. Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be made in Green Lawn cemetery at Plymouth, O.

ODD FELLOWS OF DISTRICT TO MEET

I. O. O. F. Past Grand Master To Be Here Monday Night.

Odd Fellows of District No. 31, will honor J. M. Fitzpatrick of Bethel, O., past grand master of the grand lodge of Ohio, when he comes here Monday night to attend a district meeting. If the weather is favorable, the Odd Fellows band will escort him from his hotel to the lodge hall at 7:15.

Lodge will open in third degree of scarlet at 7:45 p. m. with Clyde Tumbleson, noble grand, presiding. George M. Laughman of Marion is deputy to the grand master in this district, and is promoting the meeting Monday night.

28 TO TAKE TESTS

KENTON, April 4—Twenty-eight students from Kenton High school will go to Bowling Green May 2 for the district scholarship tests. Each teacher or instructor will appoint two students from their subjects to represent Kenton.

Tests by scientists have indicated that a bee's eyes are only about one per cent as efficient as a human being's.

MAC COULDN'T STAND FOR WHIPPLE TAKING TILLIE TO THE PARTY, SO HE PLAYED SICK AND THE BOSS SENT WHIPPLE OUT OF TOWN INSTEAD OF MAC
MAC, I WANT YOU TO MEET MR. BLAKE, PRESIDENT OF THE "GOGAL" COMPANY
IT'S A GREAT PLEASURE TO MEET A MAN OF YOUR GREAT VISION AND BUSINESS ABILITY MR. MACDOUGALL
HOW ARE YOU,
OH, MAC - PROF. ISAIAH IS GOING TO TELL MY FORTUNE. AREN'T YOU, PROFESSOR?
CERTAINLY. IF THE YOUNG LADY SO WISHES
THEY SAY EVERY-THING THE PROFESSOR TELLS COMES TRUE - HE HAS NEVER FAILED ONCE, MR. MACDOUGALL
OH, YEAH.
LISTEN, MAC - HE TOLD ME I WAS A VERY CLOSE FRIEND OF A MAN WHO IS ABOUT TO MAKE A FORTUNE IN A STOCK INVESTMENT - I'LL BET IT'S THAT "GOGAL" STOCK YOU'VE HAD A CHANCE TO BUY
I DON'T CARE ABOUT THAT - I'M SORE ABOUT THAT HINDU HOLDING YOUR HAND

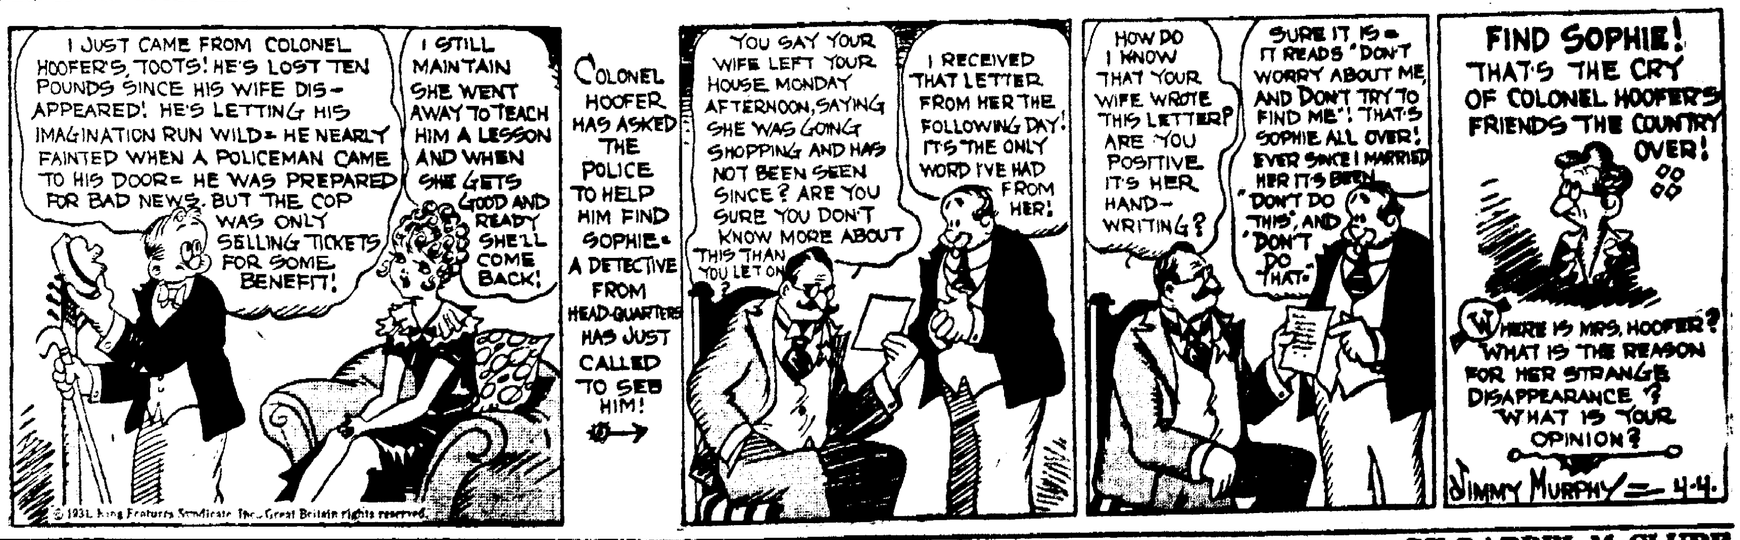
TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY



I JUST CAME FROM COLONEL HOOFER'S, TOOTS! HE'S LOST TEN POUNDS SINCE HIS WIFE DISAPPEARED! HE'S LETTING HIS IMAGINATION RUN WILD - HE NEARLY FAINTED WHEN A POLICEMAN CAME TO HIS DOOR - HE WAS PREPARED FOR BAD NEWS. BUT THE COP WAS ONLY SELLING TICKETS FOR SOME BENEFIT!
I STILL MAINTAIN SHE WENT AWAY TO TEACH HIM A LESSON AND WHEN SHE GETS GOOD AND READY SHE'LL COME BACK!
COLONEL HOOFER HAS ASKED THE POLICE TO HELP HIM FIND SOPHIE - A DETECTIVE FROM HEAD-QUARTERS HAS JUST CALLED TO SEE HIM!
YOU SAY YOUR WIFE LEFT YOUR HOUSE MONDAY AFTERNOON, SAYING SHE WAS GOING SHOPPING AND HAS NOT BEEN SEEN SINCE? ARE YOU SURE YOU DON'T KNOW MORE ABOUT THIS THAN YOU LET ON?
I RECEIVED THAT LETTER FROM HER THE FOLLOWING DAY! IT'S THE ONLY WORD I'VE HAD FROM HER!
HOW DO I KNOW THAT YOUR WIFE WROTE THIS LETTER? ARE YOU POSITIVE IT'S HER HAND-WRITING?
SURE IT IS - IT READS "DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, AND DON'T TRY TO FIND ME"! THAT'S SOPHIE ALL OVER! EVER SINCE I MARRIED HER IT'S BEEN "DON'T DO THIS", AND "DON'T DO THAT."
FIND SOPHIE! THAT'S THE CRY OF COLONEL HOOFER'S FRIENDS THE COUNTRY OVER!
WHERE IS MRS. HOOFER? WHAT IS THE REASON FOR HER STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE? WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?
JIMMY MURPHY 4-4.

I GUESS ANNIE WASN'T FOOLIN' - SHE SENT ME THIS BIRTHDAY CARD - BUT I DIDN'T KNOW ORPHANS COULD HAVE BIRTHDAYS JUST LIKE RICH KIDS
REMEMBER - BE SURE AND THANK ANNIE FOR GIVING YOU A BIRTHDAY
NOW, WE DON'T WANT THIS PARTY TO BE A FLOP - SO, REMEMBER, JUST AS SOON AS EDDIE COMES IN - DO JUST LIKE I TOLD YOU - THEN, WE'LL HAVE THE BIG EATS
WHAT'S EDDIE A BELLERING FOR?
WITH ALL THE PRESENTS HE GOT - HE OUGHTA BE LAUGHING HIS HEAD OFF!
HEY, KIDS - LUNCH IS READY
LOOKOUT YOU! BIG CAKE
GEE, AIN'T IT SWELL?
WHEE, ICE CREAM!
I AIN'T A CRY-BABY, ANNIE - BUT NOBODY AIN'T NEVER DONE ANYTHING NICE FOR ME, BEFORE
I KNOW HOW YOU FEEL - SO, COME ON, KID - LET'S HAVE A SMILE - SO THEY'LL KNOW YOU'RE HAVING A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

TRADING LIGHT ON BIG BOARD

Bears Cover in Short Session Between Good Friday and Easter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 4—Bears used the two-hour interval of trading in the stock market which was slipped in between Good Friday and Easter today primarily to buy shares to cover short commitments.

Trading was in light volume, but the list developed considerable buoyance. Net gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous at the finish, and Auburn again had a spectacular rise, closing 22 points higher. The closing tone was strong.

The upturn appeared to be primarily a technical correction of excessive bearishness. The week-end business and trade reports were scarcely of a nature to inspire bullish efforts. Steel mill operations are apparently in for further slackening next week. The week-end estimate for the Youngstown area shows another drop of 3 points to 45 per cent of capacity.

The market started downward just a fortnight ago today, after a period of backing filling after making its February peak. Today's rally was the first in the two-week period worthy of notice. Only two sessions during the fortnight have seen a higher closing prices as measured by the price index of 90 issues. Protracted declines of this sort are usually punctuated by sharp technical rebounds. Today's upturn was too technical in its appearance to give a clue as to the underlying condition of the market.

Distinctly encouraging, however, was the tone of the bond market, where the rails firmed up decisively after their sag of the early part of the week. A fair volume of new offerings is expected for the next fortnight, if the investment market continues to give a good account of itself. There was no money market today, and foreign exchanges moved negligibly, reflecting the holiday in leading foreign centers.

SCANT SUPPLY CAUSES UPTURN

Scarcity of Offerings on Chicago Market Brings Gain in Values

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 4—Scarcity of offerings resulted in a material upturn of grain prices early today. Traders voiced opinions that recent setbacks of values had largely discounted bearish factors, and that in particular the selling of wheat July delivery as low as a cent a pound would prove illogical and dangerous. Opening ⅛@⅜ cents higher, wheat continued firm. Corn also started ⅛@⅜ up and subsequently advanced further.

Demand for wheat was associated with dealings pointing to liberal European purchases from Canada. Buying also received some stimulus through crop experts' advices that the mild winter in domestic grain territory would result in abundance of insect pests and in root rots as well as stem and head blights, although the extent of damage would not be apparent to the average observer before the end of May.

Reports of serious infection of Hessian fly and chinch bugs were especially dwelt upon.

Active commission house buying of corn was based considerably on predictions that with the opening of lake navigation, Chicago stocks would decrease materially. It was also pointed out that there was continued disparity between hog and corn prices in favor of corn. Primary receipts were 745,000 bushels, compared with 894,000 a year ago. Oats strengthened with corn and wheat.

Packers upheld provisions, despite downturns in hog values.

Mansfield Car Sought in Ohio Holdup Probe

By The Associated Press.

DOVER, O., April 4—An automobile which bore a Mansfield license number was being traced today in the search for two men who obtained $2,000 in a holdup of the Indian Village Savings & Loan company at Gnadenhutten, Tuscarawas county, late yesterday.

The pair, brandishing revolvers, forced D. V. Heck, president of the bank, J. Schwindeman, vice president, Mrs. Ruth Spear, secretary, and a customer to stand with their faces to the wall.

While one of the robbers covered the quartet, the other seized all the money in sight.

When not being used for its intended purpose a new breakfast table and seats for several persons folds to become a china closet.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, April 5

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE assists to much activity and advantage to things ecclesiastical, mystical and mysterious, especially as they relate to labor, secret undertaking or literary pursuits. Things of the unusual, singular or psychic may complexion the activities of the day. Be careful with finances.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the unusual, the marvelous or intriguing may figure, although there is promise of solid benefits from practical effort and application. Writing or literary work may develop subtle aspects or point to methods of secrecy or intrigue. A child born on this day should be studious, earnest and practical, at the same time leaning to the occult, singular, idealistic, inclining to literary work of such nature.

• • •

For Monday, April 6

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST is a most important one, pointing to a sudden if not revolutionary change in the affairs, reacting on the environment with abrupt and powerful force, and being of far-reaching influence on the life. Employment, new undertakings, the purely private relations and affairs in general are to feel the effect of this quite unplanned and unforeseen chain of events. The faculties and energies will be under high stimulus and may be expected to direct circumstances into safe and profitable channels despite high pressure. But there will be some adverse situations and hostility to safely pilot into desired places.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a very important year, with radical and sudden change, affecting all interests—personal and business. It seems like an opportunity for great adventure and enterprise, with the spirits under high pressure for engineering big deals into safe and advantageous fastnesses, despite opposition and adversity. A child born on this day should be energetic, brave, adventurous and creative in original lines and should attain high position by its ingenuity and initiative.

CONFIDENCE

The whole structure of any successful business is built upon the confidence of those whom it serves.

For its entire existence of more than forty-two years, The Marion has kept faith with the thousands who have placed their funds with the company, as well as those who have borrowed its funds.

It now serves more than 7,000 customers, and has resources of more than $3,800,000.00. Safety of funds is enhanced by conservative management, which provides solid security and ample protection.

Its security is first mortgages on Marion City real estate. Its protection is reserve and surplus of more than $180,000.00 accumulated by economical management, and is for the sole protection of its members.

We welcome those who need advice and assistance. We are organized to serve in this field, and it is a pleasure to do so.

GALION AND KENTON POSTS TO MOBILIZE

Military Units Await "Practice" Call Scheduled for Monday Afternoon by State Commander.

GALION, April 4—Galion Scarbrough post of the American Legion has organized an emergency unit which will await the call of the state commander of American mobilization Monday. The emergency call will be sounded in Galion Monday night between the hours of 5 and 8 p. m.

Letters have been sent to all Galion Legion men urging that there be an immediate response to the signal Monday night by each and every member of the local post for an emergency mobilization may be necessary at any time and it is necessary that this initial call be carried out in every detail.

On Committee

The local emergency committee includes Major R. G. Sayre, commander; Wayne Davis, first vice commander; Paul Anderson, second vice commander; Jay Wirick, chairman of patrol company; Sam Brewer, chairman of supply company; Ralph Schreck, chairman of transportation company; Louis Kreiter, chairman of ambulance company; M. J. Mosbacher, chairman of communication company.

The signal for any emergency mobilization will be seven taps on the fire bell, repeated four times, and five blasts on fire siren, repeated at 10 second intervals. When this signal is sounded Monday night all Legion members are to report immediately at the post rooms and report to the chairman of the group to which they are best fitted. At that time the assignments will be given and the duties of each member and company will be outlined so that a real emergency will find the local unit prepared.

Heads Kenton Post

Kenneth "Pat" Young, commander of Company I and past commander of the Kenton American Legion post, has been named to have charge of the local peace time emergency relief mobilization to be conducted here Monday. He will be assisted by Joe Callahan and Lester Schlinglof.

Three forces, the American Legion members, Boy Scouts and the Ohio National Guard are to participate in the mobilization. The Legion members will assemble at the courthouse while the Scouts and the guardsmen are to assemble at the armory.

Time Not Known

Time for the mobilization is not known at present but will be announced over the radio through sealed orders Monday. Just what method will be used in summoning the various units for mobilization has not as yet been decided upon. There is a possibility that arrangements will be made to have church bells ring and whistles blow.

DISMISSES SUIT

Crawford County Judge Holds Will of Galion Woman Valid.

BUCYRUS, April 4 — Probate Judge J. W. Miller today dismissed the objections to the will of Mrs. Kate Shaffer by Frank Shaffer, Galion, nephew of the deceased woman. The will attracted attention here when it was discovered the following words written upon the back, "This is no good. I have changed my mind." Hearing on the will was held April 1.

When the will was filed for probate one of the beneficiaries protested that the will was not valid, while others held that in view of the fact that there were not witnesses to the notation, it was valid

Workmen Find Old Roads in Excavating

BUCYRUS, April 4—An ancient plank road and an equally old cobbie stone road was discovered here yesterday while workmen were engaged in excavating for a sewer at the corner of Poplar and East Mansfield streets. The remains of the old roads were found five feet below the surface of the street. The plank road is said to have at one time been a toll road maintained between Bucyrus and Oceola.

Morrow County Coon Hunters Promote Sport

MT. GILEAD, April 4—The Heart of Ohio Coon Hunters association, organized this year by coon hunters in Morrow and adjacent counties to increase the number of coons in order to provide better hunting is continuing the work of distributing female coons.

To date 22 coons have been secured by the Morrow county association and released in favorable locations in the county.

Add Members

The local association has 40 members now and is adding new members daily. Guy Smith, treasurer, announces. Additional aid from the state in stocking the counties with coon is hoped for. Members of the association point out that coon hunters have received little recognition from the state up to this time.

Coon hunters, it is claimed, pay for hunters' licenses and nearly all the revenue accruing is used for furthering the interests of pheasant hunters and for the propagation of fish. The latter work is necessary they claim but they also believe that a part of the money from licenses should be used to supply coons for stocking.

Purchase Coons

Only two coons have been received by the local association for release in Morrow county. All others were purchased by the members of the association.

The coon hunters have organized in recent months in several surrounding counties and expect to soon perfect their organization by combining the county branches.

Will Pictures Charlie Chaplin as the Only Real Artist Developed in the Motion Picture Business

BY WILL ROGERS

W... I know is just what I ... in the papers. Well Mr. ... back from a part of the ... had never been in till ... President. Its awful hard ... over to find new places ... election, for he has trav... But he manages to ... They was going to try ... to see if it would work ... had it renovated, so ... Here is the time for ... away from all this ...

So ... oked him out a bunch ... friends, mostly stand... ... and joined the ... started seeing the World. ... used to be hard to find ... for Coolidge to go where ... had never been, all you had to ... was just to suggest any one of ... eight states outside of ... and Massachusetts, and ... set for new territory. ... set sail for black knolls ... Dakota, why that com... importance to him to ... having for Mary Bird Land in the Anartic. Mr. Coolidge did make Cuba one time I was there at the time and saw it and he got a great welcome, too. But Mr. Hoover went on and found the Virgin Islands. A good many people thought such a place as that was a myth, but he went there and found it really.

What Were Results?

People nowdays call those "Good will tours." But you cant get peoples good will nowadays unless you bring em something. He took em a speech but no donations. So outside of what fish he got on the trip its kinder hard to figure out just exact benefitiary results. He told em that he wanted to give every one of them the same as we had up here. Well that depends on how well posted they are on what is happening to us how they took that remark. In other words if they took him at his word, and wanted what we got, they would immediately ask for Red Cross relief. But I think it was a mighty fine trip for him to have taken and it will do a lot of good. Roosevelt went down there when he was President, and everything he did was O K. so I know this must have been.

Well what else we got? Did you ever read such a procession of acclaim as Charley Chaplin is making all over Europe? Why Charley dont any more than land in a Country till the Prime Minister grabs him off to his home, like some Movie fan asking for an Autograph. Charley is pretty foxy though, and mighty well informed on affairs. He can talk and argue with them. He is a pretty rabid Socialist, and has made a pretty serious study of it.

Only Real Genius

One night a few years ago I was asked to introduce him at the Lambs Club in New York, thats the most exclusive Actor organization. It was his first trip to New York in a good while and he was having some unfavorable Newspaper publicity at the time. Well I told them that in all my little years on the Stage and screen that I had only met one person that I had only met one person that I could honestly call an "Artist," every other person I ever saw, some one else could do what he was doing just as good, and that it was all a trick, and not real genius. But that Chaplin was all that these Real so called Artists was supposed to be. And he is, he is the only genius developed in the films since they started.

Any of us can get "Artistic" and say we wont work till noon, or wont do this or that But we are doing it on some firms money,..but Chaplin can come on his set, and turn loose 500 people, tell em he will call em again some other time, and he is doing it on his dough. Art aint put on when you are paying for it out of your own pocket. He writes, directs, and acts the whole thing. Any one else making a picture there is at least a dozen people that are directly concerned in its success. Chaplin replaces all of them alone.

No, whether you like him or not, (and how you couldent I dont know) but he is one of the few Geniuses developed during our time in any line. So all this Hooy is not wasted on some Bird that dont deserve it. The Prince of Wales (who is quite a fellow himself, and done some prowling around the world) why a Zulu wouldn't know him from Senator Boran although he is the best known man in the World. But the old Zulu would sure pick you out Charley in his Derby and big "Dogs"

Give It to Poor Renters

Say what's going to happen to this wheat thing? The Government bought up a lot of last year's crop, and now they got it, and here is coming along another new crop. Borah wants to give it to China to make rice out of. I would like to see it given to renter farmers in this Contry to make bread out of You'd be surprised if you knew how little those poor people had to live on that was issued by the Red Cross. They did marvelous work as usual the Red Cross, but what I mean is if the same thing come up again, I sure would like to see 'em have enough more money so the issue of rations would be larger. Of course when you are getting Charity you can't be the chooser, but it was barely enough to get along on. Now why can't something be done with some of all this surplus wheat? We are going to have to charge that Farm board's operations off as a loss anyhow it looks like now. Course I guess they did what they thought was right But people can raise things faster in this Country than anybody can buy it, even the Government.

Say did you read in the papers about a bunch of Women up in British Columbia as a protest against high taxes, sit out in the open naked and they wouldent put their clothes on? The authorities finally turned Sprayer that you use on trees, on 'em. That may lead into quite a thing Woman comes into the tax office nude, saying I won't pay. Well they can't search her and get anything It sounds great. How far is it to British Columbia?

BUTTER, EGG PRICES UNSTEADY IN WEEK

Easter Trade Affects Commodities; Strawberries Move Downward.

Egg and butter prices changed often during the week on local markets. Butter jumped two cents Monday but dropped back to normal Friday, while egg prices have been varying at different stores in accordance with the demand for Easter.

Apples are slowly disappearing from Marion stores. Baldwins have been off the market for some time while Ganos, Roman Beauty, Jonathan and Delicious are going fast.

Strawberries took a drop Friday and are retailing today at 20 to 35 cents. These berries are grown in Florida and are of a much better quality and larger than the first which made their appearance on local markets. The first berries that were on the market here were grown in the sandy soil of Louisiana and were not as plentiful as the present lot.

Old potatoes jumped in price Friday due to the fact that they are fast disappearing from the markets. Head lettuce dropped two cents and bananas took a slight upward turn in wholesale price but not enough to affect the prices at the local stores.

Mushrooms dropped during the week from 60 to 70 cents a pound to 55 and 65 cents.

Potted plants were placed on sale at local stores Tuesday as an Easter specialty. These plants were grown in Marion and were placed on local markets to aid in Easter decorations.

Delaware School Pupils Will Honor War Veterans

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., April 4— Children of the Delaware city schools will do honor Monday to G. H. Koeppel, Civil war veteran on the occasion of his eighty-sixth birthday anniversary. The aged veteran participated in 11 major battles during the struggle between the states. He was wounded four times, and acted as personal bodyguard to General Sherman on that officer's march to the sea.

Koeppel holds the distinction of having voted before he attained his majority. He joined the army before he was 21, and so was entitled to suffrage.

College Honors Go to Ministers' Daughters

By The Associated Press.

DEFIANCE, O., April 4— Two ministers' daughters have been announced as the honor members of the 1931 senior class at Defiance college.

Miss Charlote Bilkey of Defiance, will be valedictorian of the class. She is the daughter of Rev. C. L. Bilkey, rector of the Grace Episcopal church. She is expected to be graduated with the magna cum laude diploma, which requires an unusually high average.

The salutatorian will be Miss Margaret McCague, daughter of Rev. Fremont McCague. Her average was slightly below that of Miss Bilkey.

GARY, Ind.—Twenty members of the Indiana Aircraft Association flew here to attend a special session at which dates for the third annual Hoosier air tour were selected. roe's "Eastertide." The choir of Salem Evangelical church will sing the cantata, "The Resurrection Hope" with Mrs W B Long directing.

A sacred cantata, "The First Easter," will be sung by the Young People's choir of First Reformed church Sunday night under the direction of Mrs John Hoffman, with Mrs Fred Sinning at the organ. "The Makers of the Cross," a story of the cross and the resurrection of the Lord, will be presented Sunday night at First Church of the Brethren.

A pageant, "Alleluia' Christ Is Risen" will be given at Fite Memorial Baptist church Sunday night. "Our Living Lord," an Easter cantata, will be given Sunday night by the choir of Epworth M E church under the direction of Knox Dunlop. A cast of young women of Asbury M. E. church will present a play, "The Challenge of Cross," Sunday night.

The primary department of the Sunday school of the Prospect Street M. E church will give a short Easter program during the Sunday school hour. An Easter pageant, "The Birthday of Hope," will be given at Central Christian church Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Holy Communion

Holy Communion will take precedence over all other services at St. Paul's Episcopal church on Easter day. There will be a celebration of communion at 7:30 and 10:30 a. m. The 10:30 service will be fully choral, with music in detail as follows:

Organ prelude, "O Filii," Deplantay; processional hymn, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," Worgan; Gloria tibi and Laus tibi, Stainer; sermon hymn, "The Strife Is O'er," Victory; offertory anthem, "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," Wilson; presentation sentence, "Old Hundred;" Sursum corda, Stainer; Ter sanctus, Stainer; Agnus Dei, Stainer; Gloria in Excelsis, Stainer; ablution hymn, "Nunc Dimittis," Gower; recessional hymn, "Come Ye Faithful," St. Kevin; organ postlude, "Choral Postlude," Armstrong.

Rev. S. S Hardy, rector, will preach on "The Life Here and Hereafter." The immemorial custom of all Episcopalians throughout the world of making their communion on Easter day, will be carried out at St. Paul's church. At 3 p. m. the annual Easter festal service for the children of the parish will be held in the church. Easter services at St. Paul's will be open to anyone in the city wishing to attend.

Solemn High mass at 11 a. m. Easter Sunday will open 40 hours devotion services at St. Mary's church. Rev. Fr. Henry B. Kriege, assistant pastor, will be the celebrant. Rev. Fr. William J. Spickerman, pastor, will officiate as deacon with a visiting Franciscan priest as subdeacon.

Masses will be sung at 6:30, 8 and 9:30 a. m. At the 8 a. m. mass special Easter songs will be sung by the children's choir. A solemn procession of the Blessed Sacrament in which 30 acolytes will march will be held at the solemn high mass.

Under the direction of Dr Robert Ramroth, the St Mary's male chorus will precede the solemn high mass with "Vidi Aquam," after which the mass will be sung. "Kyrie' and "Gloria" from Mozart's "Twelfth Mass," will open the service. The remainder of the mass will be sung from Gounod's "Mass to St Cecelia." During the offertory the chorus will sing "Haec Dies" by Victor Hammerel. Miss Lucile Conarty at the organ, will play the recessional, "Festival March' by Humphrey J. Stock.

Services at 7:30 p. m. include devotions and benediction. The 40 hours devotions will close Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. During the period, the Blessed Sacrament will be solemnly exposed and members of the parish will visit the sacrament for meditation and prayer.

A sunrise prayer meeting will be held at Oakland Evangelical church Sunday at 6 a. m. Rev. Clyde Wendell will lead the service.

Quartet To Sing

Mrs. Knox Dunlop, soprano, Mrs. A. M Hunter, alto; Rex H. Robinson, tenor, and Harold Bradt, baritone, will be soloists for the cantata at Epworth church. Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence will play the organ accompaniment.

The junior and adult choirs of First Church of the Brethren will have charge of the music for the presentation of "The Makers of the Cross," Sunday at 7:30 p. m. The story will be read by Miss Edythe Thompson, interspersed with solos, duets, quartet and chorus numbers by the choir.

Services at First Reformed church will open with the Sunrise service, with Miss Ruth Jacobs in charge. The organ prelude and postlude will be played by Miss Dorothy Zieg. Nelson Klingel will present the scripture lesson and Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor, will offer prayer. Miss Clover Mae Klingel will play a violin solo. "The Way of the Cross," the subject for the service, will be given by individuals in the audience reading passages of scripture pertaining to Christ's march from Jerusalem to Calvary. A vocal solo by Miss Helen Zeller and sentence prayers will precede a number by the young people's choir, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?" A quartet composed of Fred Sinning, Oliver Mohrhoff, Herbert Goedicke and John Hoffman will sing "The Old Rugged Cross." The Mizpah benediction will close the service.

To Conduct Campaign

A C Queen is chairman of the building fund committee and will conduct the final campaign Sunday at 9 a. m. At 10:30 a m members will be received into the church and the communion service will be observed. A quartet will sing "Worthy Is the Lamb" Members of the quartet are Mrs John Huffman, Miss Dora Jacobs, Mr. Mohrhoff and Mr. Goedicke. Sunday night the sacred cantata, "The First Easter," will be given.

The cast for "Alleluia' Christ Is Risen," to be given at Fite Memorial Baptist church Sunday night has been announced as follows: Stanley Brobeck, "Simon," owner of a home near Jerusalem; Mrs. Lulu Spain, "Miriam," his wife, Howard Bosh, "Paul," a son; Kenneth Hatcher, "Stephen," a son; Miss Dorothy Bailey, "Dorcas,' a daughter; Bert Harrison, "Andrew," a neighbor; Mrs. Grace Brown, "Drusilla," his wife; Miss Aenid Spain, "Ruth," their daughter; Miss Mary Pottorf, "Martha," their daughter; Ralph Bosh, "James," their son; Miss Mary Hoagland, "Lois," friend of Ruth.

Between acts of the pageant, Miss Marie Long and Miss Martha Osterholt will sing a duet, "The Lamb of God." A choir will sing "The Lord's Command." Misses Emma Osterholt, Marjorie Long, Olga Smith, Edna Smith, Helen McMahan and Thelma Knight will present a pantomime, "Our Lord Is Risen from the Dead," during which Miss Stella Matthews and Mrs. Garland Taylor will sing The pageant will close with a song, 'For Easter Day, sung by the choir and pageant cast. A trio, Mrs H L Brobeck, Mrs Lulu Spain and Mrs Lawrence Hatcher, will sing "The Three Crosses."

To Give Play

The play "The Christian Trail," to be given Sunday night at Asbury M. E church, will be in four acts. Rev Albert L Slack pastor, will preach a short sermon on "The Challenge of the Cross."

The play opens in a Sunday school room with Elmer Prance, Basil Morgan, Miss Betty Patton and James Berry in a class taught by Mrs Ruby Gallimore. The second act cast includes Miss Vera Dyke, "Mary, Mother of Jesus," Miss Ruth Gallimore, 'Mary Magdalene," Miss Eva Dyke, "the other Mary," and Rev Slack "Man." Songs will be sung by Miss Gallimore and the choir and congregation. The cast for the third act is as follows: Leo Patton "John," a middle-aged business man, Miss Mae Gustin, "Elizabeth" a tired modern woman, Miss Erma Hickman "Beth," 18-year-old modern daughter; Raymond Gallimore, "Jack," 20 years old Mrs Hattie Van Houten, Grandma, Rev Slack, "Man." The consecration to seek the Christian trail will bring the play to a close. A trio Miss Hazel Smith, Miss Ruth Gallimore and Don Patton will assist in the music.

Musical Story

"Eastertide" by Protheroe to be presented at First Presbyterian church at vesper services at 4 p. m., is a dramatic musical setting of the complete Easter story beginning with the trial before Pilate. In an organ solo is heard the tramp of feet on the way to Calvary and later the scene of Jesus on the cross. The first part of the cantata closes with a chorale "O Perfect Life of Love."

Part two tells the story of the Resurrection morn—the dawn, the earthquake and Mary's lament. The finale is an inspiring hymn of thanks for victory over death through the Lord, Jesus Christ.

Miss Madalaine Dunlap of Bucyrus, a student at Capital university and soloist for the university glee club, will sing the soprano solos. Mrs. Earl N. Hale, contralto, John Lacey, tenor, and I. H. Taylor, bass, complete the quartet. Mrs. Harry T. Williams, music director and organist, has arranged a prelude from Maunder's cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary," which will be played as the opening number. Other organ numbers will be "Hallelujiah Chorus," Handel, and "Spring Song" Hollins.

Five services will be held at Trinity Baptist church Easter Sunday. Special music, talks and sermons will feature each service. T. R. Evans will be in charge of music, with Mrs. W. R. Roberts at the organ.

Sunrise Services

The services will open at 6:30 a. m. with a sunrise service conducted by the young people and in charge of Miss Bernita LeMasters. Sunday school will open at 9 a. m.

Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, will deliver a sermon, "The Resurrection," which will be in conjunction with special music by the choir and organ. The choir will sing "God Hath Appointed a Day," Rogers, and "Awake, My Glory," Barnby. Robert Swisher will sing "The Holy City," Weatherly. There will be baptism of adults.

Baptismal services for boys and girls will be at 2 p. m. with a sermon by Rev. Wood. "Lessons from the Resurrection" Miss Mildred Duffey will sing "I Live for Thee," Dunbar. The Young People's union will discuss "Easter Messages in Literature" at 6:30 p m., with Misses Ileen Kraus and Neva Burtch as leaders.

Rev. Wood will preach at night on "The Proof of the Resurrection." Communion services will be observed and certificates of membership will be given to those received into the church during the Easter season. The choir will sing "God So Loved the World," from Stainer's "The Crucifixion," and Miss LeMasters will sing "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," by Cara Roma.

The sunrise services at Calvary Evangelical church under the auspices of the young people, will open with an organ number by Miss Pauline Zachman and silent prayer with the congregation standing. Miss Wilma Click will read the Easter scripture lesson, and Gloyd Dearth will play a violin solo. Mrs John Roth will give a talk, "Easter - Peace and Hope," and following a vocal duet 'Up from the Grave He Arose' sung by Mrs Helen Prettyman and Miss Coral Underwood; Gerald Zimmer will give a talk, "Easter—Faith and Love." A male quartet singing "The Golden Dawn" and benediction, will close the service.

Camp Breakfast

An unusual sunrise service will be the camp breakfast which the young people of the Church of the Brethren will have at 5:30 a. m at the Ohio Blue Limestone Co quarry on the Likens road. Rev G. G. Canfield, pastor, will deliver a sermonette. A service of worship in song and prayer has been arranged.

Salem Evangelical church will have a vesper service and cantata, "The Resurrection Hope," at 4 p. m., instead of services Sunday night. The church choir under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Long and with Miss Elfreda Horn as organist, will present the cantata. Rev. Paul H. Bourquin, pastor, will pronounce the invocation, following the organ prelude and processional.

Duet and solo numbers will be sung by Harold Hittenrauch, baritone, and George F. Lusch, tenor, Mrs. L. A. Keller, soprano, Guy Laubis of Kenton, guest baritone, Miss Edna Koenig, soprano, Mrs. Jacob Ebert, soprano, W. B. Long, tenor, Miss Edith Eibling, contralto, and John F. Leffler, tenor. A quartet, Mrs. Keller, Mrs. George Reinwald, Mr Lusch and Mr. Long, will sing with the chorus, the final number, "Christ Is Risen Today."

Mrs. Sifritt To Speak

The Mary Martha Bible class will be in charge of the sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. Mrs. Frank Sifritt will give the main address, "Easter." The program includes an organ prelude by Miss Mary Heininger, a solo by Mrs. W. B. Long, prayer by Rev. Bourquin; a duet, "The Voice Divine," by Mrs. L. A Keller and G. F. Lusch; scripture lesson by Miss Helena Hart; a violin solo, "Le Deluge," by Miss Margaret Hoover; a duet by Mrs. Jacob Ebert and Mrs. George Reinwald, a flute solo by L. B. McNeal and the offertory by Miss Horn. The administration of the Holy Lord's Supper and a hymn will close the service.

The morning church service will be at the regular time, 10:30 a. m. Rev. Bourquin will preach a sermon on "The Resurrection." Communion will close the service.

A class of adults will be confirmed at Emanuel's Lutheran church Sunday morning and Holy Communion will be celebrated.

Sunday School Services

The morning sunrise services at Central Christian church will be in charge of Keith Maloney and Miss Verna Babcock. A goal of 540 has been set for the Bible school at tendance. A young men's quartet, including Paul Hunt, Harold Patrick, Keith Maloney and Francis Fairchild, will sing at the Sunday school service.

Rev. George E. Groves, pastor, will preach his farewell sermon at 10:30 a. m.

At 7:30 p. m., an Easter pageant, "The Birthday of Hope," will be given by the following cast:

Miss Alma Rubens, "Hope;" Miss Esther Johnson, "Joy;" Miss Kathryn Schneider, "Grief;" Misses Betty Creviston, Phyllis Tierney, Doris Utz and Frances Jennings, "Childhood;" Misses Helen Woodruff, Pauline Rubens, Doris Martin, Margaret Unger, Imogene Mears, Ruth Owens, Margaret Noe, Josephine Stafford, Dorotha Clark, Wanda Gibson, Verna Babcock and June Jennings, "Joy's attendants." Mrs. Elmer Weimer is directing the pageant. Music will be in charge of the choir.

Hallelujah, Jesus Lives

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. J. W. SCHILLINGER,
Pastor, Emanuel's Lutheran Church.

THE Christ in whom we believe is not a dead Christ. He is a living Christ. He is not a Christ who once lived in this world, has died and departed, and is here no longer. He is the ever-living and ever-present Christ.

He indeed once died for our sins according to the Scriptures. By His death He paid the penalty of our sins. With His precious blood He made an atonement for all of our sins. Our sins were nailed to His cross and carried to His grave. But He is dead no more. On the third day He broke the bonds of death, and came forth, victorious and triumphant over sin, death, the grave and hell. The disciples, coming to the tomb, found it empty. Soon He appeared to them and showed Himself alive. He showed them His wounded hands and feet and His pierced side. He ate and drank in their presence. His body which was crucified became alive again. His spirit had returned to His body and made it alive again. "He showed Himself alive to His disciples by many infallible proofs." He continued with them in the old familiar way for the space of forty days. Then He ascended into heaven, not that He might be confined in heaven at one place, but, as the Scripture says, "He ascended far above all heavens, that He might fill all things."

Now He is the risen, living, victorious Christ. He is the everywhere-present, almighty Christ. He rules in all the world with His almighty arm. Wicked men may do as they please, the almighty Christ still rules; they can not hinder His plans; He makes their very wickedness serve His purposes. He holds the affairs of the world in the hollow of His hand. He guides the course of the world's history in such a way, that His kingdom marches on across the centuries to success and victory. The time is soon at hand when all of the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ.

The same almighty and victorious Christ rules in our hearts with grace and love. He now lives in us, in order to establish His throne in our hearts. Those who surrender themselves to Him soon find that He rules and controls them entirely. He purges them of all sin, and moves them to walk on paths of love, purity and righteousness. Thus the living, victorious Christ in us makes us victorious over sin and Satan while we live in this world. He lives in us to give us strength, comfort, joy and peace during all our earthly pilgrimage; and when life's journey is done, He makes us victorious over death and hell. We know that Christ lives, for He lives in us.

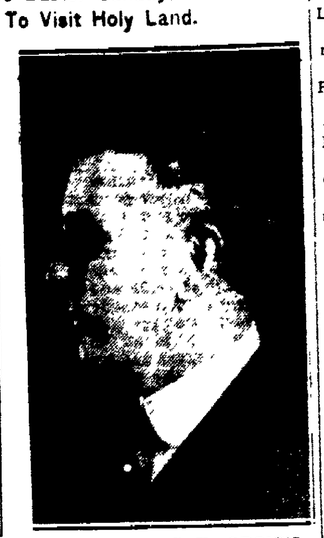
Since the risen Christ has chosen to make us His dwelling place, we know that He will on the last day raise us also from the dead. "He that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken our mortal bodies by His spirit that dwelleth in us." On that great day "He shall change our vile bodies and make them like unto His glorious body. When He shall appear, we shall be like Him."

"O the sweet joy this sentence gives;
I know that my Redeemer lives."

PASTORS TO LEAVE CITY

Rev. LeRoy Deininger and Rev. George E. Groves To Preach Their Last Sermons Here Easter Sunday; Central Christian Minister To Visit Holy Land.

REV. LeROY DEININGER



REV. GEORGE E. GROVES

Easter Sunday will bring to a close the services of two Marion ministers, Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of Central Christian church, and Rev. LeRoy Deininger, pastor of Salem (rural) Evangelical and Grace Evangelical church on Herman street.

Rev. Groves will complete six years as pastor of Central church and in his honor farewell services have been planned. A reception for him will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the church to which all of his Marion friends have been invited.

Leaves for Mansfield

Rev. Deininger will preach his last sermon here Sunday at 7 p. m. and will leave next week for Mansfield, to take over the pastorate of the Main Street Evangelical church. He came here last September. Rev. H. H. Maxwell, his successor, will arrive the first of June, and until that time, supply pastors will fill the pulpit.

During Rev. Groves' ministry here, 430 persons have united with Central Christian church and nearly 300 of these have been through baptism. One of the features of his work here was the establishment of a junior church shortly after he took over the pastorate. It was the first of its kind in Marion.

He was president of the Marion County Ministerial association for one term and was chairman of a committee that made a religious census of the entire county. He was also chairman of the city daily vacation Bible schools for two terms and is at present chairman of the evangelistic committee of the association.

Will Visit Holy Land

Rev. Groves has been asked to consider several new fields for a future location, but may not make a definite decision until after a trip to the Holy Land which he is considering. He will leave the city the first of the week for a visit with his father at Barnesville, O.

Before coming here he was pastor at Washington C. H. for nine years and led in the erection of a new church building costing $50,000. Previous to that time he was pastor for seven years at the McConnelsville, O., church and led a similar building enterprise. The church edifice there cost approximately $25,000.

Rev. Groves will be succeeded by Rev. James A. Dodd of New Philadelphia, O., who will preach his first sermon here next Sunday.

PILOT BURIED TODAY

Fry's Funeral Takes Place in California; Gets Military Honors.

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 4—About the same time Knute Rockne is laid at rest at South Bend, Ind., the man who piloted the plane in which the noted coach lost his life will be buried here today.

He is Robert G. Fry, veteran World war pilot, who will be given full military honors. Fry's widow, a bride of eight months and his parents will attend the services.

UPHOLDS RULING IN BOND APPEAL

Court of Appeals Sustains Verdict of Crawford County Judge.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 4 — The court of appeals today affirmed the ruling of the common pleas court in the appeal for the reduction of bond made by George Rinsel and Henry Oberlander, bondsmen for Wilbur Hand.

An appeal for a reduction of the $5,700 bond was made by George Rinsel and Henry Oberlander in the local court several months ago. The case will likely be carried to the supreme court.

Hand, who was convicted in connection with the Commercial Bank robbery at Galion in June, 1927, is serving a sentence of 12 to 25 years in the state penitentiary.

TWO POLICE BATTLE 25 RUM SMUGGLERS

Officers Withdraw Only After Ammunition Supply Is Exhausted.

By The Associated Press

FALMOUTH, Mass., April 4—A gang of 25 rum smugglers escaped early today after a gun battle with two police officers, when officers, both suffering minor wounds, were forced to withdraw when their ammunition was exhausted.

Chief of Police William A. Mercer was shot in the hand and Sergeant Roy S. Conant was wounded in the arm.

The smugglers leaped from the windows of a house near the sea in which they had barricaded themselves and escaped into the woods as the policemen went to replenish their ammunition. What the casualties of the smugglers may have been was not known.

Mercer and Conant with a third officer had been watching the house for several nights. Last night they entered a garage and found 140 cases of liquor. Officer Arthur F. Hamilton was sent for a truck to transport the liquor when the firing opened.

The smugglers and police saw each other at the same moment both sides began firing as the rum runners fled into the house. The police took shelter behind trees. State troopers beat the woods in the vicinity today, and watched the coast for the fugitives.

THE PRESIDENT of the Seattle chamber of commerce, Mr. King Dykeman, wishes the world to know that the Wenatchee and Yakima districts of his state, Washington, have shipped their five-millionth box of Washington apples. Wenatchee and Yakima, celebrating with Seattle this accomplishment, shipped box No 5,000,000 to Hamburg.

Other boxes, from the same state, have gone all over the world and have brought to the owners of Washington apple trees more than $6,000,000.

What is more important, they have helped to build up the health of millions that have eaten them.

The White House had one telephone instrument from 1878 to 1898, and then one telephone extension was added. In 1924 the White House had four incoming lines and twenty-six stations.

Now the White House has a double switchboard and 102 working lines. And since President Hoover was elected, 711,780 telephone calls have been made to and from the White House, more than double the number in any similar length of time.

All of which is progress. Every telephone call saves time, and time is all that we have.

NEW YORK Republican politicians demand Theodore Roosevelt Second for vice president, in place of Vice President Curtis, on the 1932 ticket, with President Hoover. They believe that a son of the original Theodore would get many votes, in country regions especially, and help to offset any big vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt, should the New York governor be nominated by the Democrats.

G. O. P. ASSEMBLY RULE THREATENED

Showdown Scheduled as Legislature Prepares for Final Week.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 4—The Ohio house of representatives will go into the final week of the general session Monday with the dictatorship of the Republican leaders threatened.

The challenge of the Republican leadership, hurled on the floor Thursday by Representative William W. Weir, Republican of Trumbull county, will come to a showdown Tuesday or Wednesday.

Weir served notice of a proposal to alter the rules governing the taking up of legislation out of order on the calendar. His proposal, if approved, would place in the hands of a majority of elected members the right to consider any bill if so desired.

Since the beginning of the session the Republicans have controlled the legislative program but its dictatorship became almost supreme just two weeks ago when a calendar committee of five Republicans and two Democrats was established to decide upon what bills the house would be permitted to vote.

Open revolt came just two weeks to the day from the date the calendar committee started functioning. Labor leaders in the house indicated they were prepared to join Weir in his attempt to override the dictatorship of their party leaders. Their attitude, it was understood, was caused by the failure of the calendar committee to place the "yellow dog" contract bill upon the calendar.

The bill, which would outlaw contracts between an employer and an employe whereby the employe would promise to have no connections with a union during the course of employment, was reported out of committee several weeks ago.

Marion Bank Asks That Woman Be Nabed Defendant in Suit.

BUCYRUS, April 4—The Commercial bank of Marion today filed a motion in common pleas court asking that Fanny Davenport, mother of the late Sheriff George Davenport be named party defendant in their suit against Davenport and others as owners of the Blue Goose farm south of here.

The bank's suit for $700 is for damages resulting from wrongful detention of oats and other grain levied on by Sheriff Davenport. The petition was granted by Judge C. U. Ahl.

LINGLE CASE JURY CONVICTS BROTHERS

14-Year Sentence Ahead for Gangster; Attorneys To Continue Fight.

He paled a little when it was read, but otherwise remained as much unperturbed as he did during all the while the prosecution was piling up the testimony of witnesses who said they recognized him as the man they saw near or fleeing from the scene of the Tribune reporter's slaying last June 9. His mother, Mrs. Rose Jessen, however, became hysterical and his sweetheart, Miss Betty Cook, cried bitterly.

24 Ballots Taken

Twenty-four ballots in all were taken by the jury, whose members said they started out 7 to 5 for acquittal, gradually reaching 11 to 1 for conviction. H. W. Crotzer said at no time was the electric chair, demanded by the prosecution, given any consideration. The maximum considered was life imprisonment.

Philip Hagerman, who held out for 26 hours for acquittal was quoted by the Herald and Examiner as saying he "still believed Brothers innocent."

The trial, lasting nearly three weeks, resolved into a question of the identification of the man seen fleeing from the vicinity of the Michigan avenue pedestrian tunnel in which Lingle was shot in the back of the head while enroute to a race course. No attempt to prove an alibi for Brothers was made by the defense, which described the case as a "frame up," nor did the prosecution try to prove a motive as an answer to the oft-repeated question: "Why was Jake Lingle killed?"

smoothly answered questions, paled as he heard the decision which makes a life sentence mandatory. The blood drained from his face and his hand twitched nervously, but a moment later he had regained his composure and was telling reporters he had nothing to say.

Women Against Execution

Eleven ballots were taken, it was revealed, and at the outset stood seven to five for conviction. Three women jurors who at first held out for acquittal saved the Pittsburgh whisky runner's life. They were won over to conviction, but forced the compromise which precluded a death sentence.

Judge McMahon said he would sentence Martin a week from today after giving the defense an opportunity to appeal.

Miller has charged Potter was "put on the spot" as an outgrowth of the city land scandal of 1928. Former Councilman Liston G. Schooley and his son are now serving terms for their part in defrauding the city of $30,000. Potter was twice acquitted of complicity in the deal, but was facing a trial for perjury when he was shot to death.

The former politician was slain the night of Feb. 3, but his body was not found until five days later.

"AKRON MARY" GRIEVES

Wants To Rush to Hymie's Side, But Attorney Says "No."

By United Press.

AKRON, O., April 4—"Akron Mary" Outland, sweetheart of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, who testified as his "ace" alibi witness, wants to go to Cleveland to comfort him, but Attorney A. J. Bianchi, who brought Mary to her mother's home here after she testified for Hymie, forbade her to make the trip to her sweetheart's cell in the Cuyahoga county jail.

"She is a loyal friend and a good sport but the strain of the trial has proven too much for her and she needs rest and quiet," the attorney explained. "I may permit her to visit Hymie later."

"Oh, I am so sorry," she sobbed. "I am sure Hymie is innocent and I will go to see him and tell him so."

Young Lawyer's Death Unsolved Mystery

Inquiry in St. Louis Murder Uncovers "Money Trails."

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of stories by Associated Press writers dealing with celebrated murder mysteries of recent years.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Out of a Sunday morning canter on May 1, 1927, Judge Sam Hodgdon of St. Louis county pulled up his horse, which had shied suddenly at something along the lonely road.

The "something" proved to be the body of a man, half propped against a clay bank and pierced by six bullets.

Thus was the curtain raised on one of the most baffling murder mysteries this community has ever encountered—the slaying of Clifford M. Hicks, promising young attorney, law partner of former Gov. Elliott Major, Sunday school superintendent, one-time Methodist minister and director in a bank.

• • •

THE investigation which followed covered a period of months, bringing men and women from many walks of life to police headquarters.

First and most sensational of the disclosures was the revelation that Hicks, only 28 years old, had become financially involved to the point where he owed $307,000, and had taken out life insurance policies totaling $385,000.

A finance company operated by Hicks had been credited with bank deposits of nearly $3,000,000 in the five months before his death, yet his actual estate—aside from the insurance—was found to be less than $25,000.

He had told his wife that his life had been threatened and that he intended to leave town. He is known to have spent most of his last day desperately attempting to raise money.

Out for a Sunday canter, Judge Sam Hodgdon's horse shied suddenly, disclosing beside the road the body of Clifford M. Hicks (above) promising young St. Louis attorney. Glenn Hicks (below), a brother, was held for a time but later released. The widow is shown above.

PARTLY because of a trip they made to Clifford Hicks' office early on the morning of May 1, before the body had been discovered, Glenn Hicks and William Davis, a burglar ex-convict, were taken into custody.

Glenn admitted removing papers from his brother's office and destroying them, but claimed they were of a personal nature and that Clifford had asked that they be burned in case "anything happened."

A few days after Hicks' death, the bank in which he had been a director, closed its doors.

To resolve doubts of the victim's identity, arising from rumors that the killing was a gigantic insurance fraud, Hicks' body was exhumed. Glenn Hicks and Davis, after questioning, were released.

• • •

THIS, coupled with the marked reluctance of several business associates, creditors and members of the family to testify, brought matters to an impasse.

Chief of Detectives Robert Kaiser believes not one but several of the witnesses could still clear up the mystery if they would.

"But there was too much money involved." That's his explanation.

Did Hicks take his own life? Was he killed by gangsters for "holding out" the proceeds of spoils he had marketed? Or did supposedly respectable associates, learning of his plan to "run out" on them instead of committing suicide, take matters into their own hands? Except by chance, the law may never find out.

Washington's mysteries—the Mary Baker and Beulah Limerick cases will be the next in this series of crime stories.

FILL CHURCHES FOR FRIDAY SERVICES

Observances Held at St. Mary's, St. Paul's and First Presbyterian.

The auditorium of First Presbyterian church in which union Good Friday services were held yesterday was filled to capacity and it was necessary to open the adjoining Sunday school rooms to accommodate the crowds during the three-hour service from 12 noon until 3 p. m.

Services at St. Paul's Episcopal and St. Mary's Catholic churches attracted equally large attendances. Three Hours devotion services were conducted by Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of the Episcopalian church. St. Mary's church was open all day to worshippers.

Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, presided at the union services. "The Way of the Cross" was the theme of the entire three hours. Duets and solos were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Knox Dunlop, Mrs. Earl N. Hale, Miss Catherine Canfield and Robert Swisher.

Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of First Presbyterian church, conducted the observance of the Lord's Supper, assisted by Rev. James M. Fisher, director of the Lee Street Presbyterian church. Ministers from the uptown Protestant churches participated in the services.

PROPOSE TO ABOLISH STATE CAGE TOURNEY

Reports of Immorality Among Students Bring Action in Indiana.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, April 4 — Spurred to action by reports of alleged immorality among high school students attending finals of the Indiana state interscholastic basketball tournament, the state board of education will make an investigation to determine whether the tourney should be abolished.

A move seeking elimination of the tournament was started yesterday at the board's meeting by William A. Wirt, superintendent of Gary schools. The board, however, finally approved the suggestion of Linnaeus N. Hines, president of Indiana State Teachers' college, Terre Haute, that a committee be appointed to look into the situation and report its findings.

Reports of drinking and alleged immorality at the recent final tournament in Indianapolis were brought to the attention of the board by Superintendent Wirt, who said, "it's a bad thing to throw so many young people into the city without chaperons."

TRACES CIRRHOSIS TO BOOTLEG RUM

Pure Alcohol Not Cause of Liver Ailment, Physician Asserts.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 4—Pure alcohol does not cause cirrhosis of the liver, but beware of moonshine whisky made in copper stills, says Dr. F. B. Mallory of Boston.

Dr. Mallory, who for the last 35 years has conducted experiments concerning the effect of alcohol on the liver, told the closing session of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists yesterday that the injury to the liver known as alcoholic cirrhosis is not caused by ethyl alcohol but probably by some toxic substance frequently contaminating liquors.

He said he had kept hogs drunk for 15 years without finding what impurities in alcohol cause cirrhosis but was certain that pure alcohol had no deleterious effect on the liver.

Liver troubles have increased since prohibition, he believes, because of the copper which sometimes gets into liquor distilled in copper stills. Copper is a deadly poison to the liver, he said.

CONVICTS' PROPOSAL OPPOSED BY WARDEN

Thomas Thinks Gibson and Grate Would "Take Rap" for Other Plotters.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., April 4—Though refusing to voice an official protest, Warden Preston E. Thomas of the Ohio penitentiary today was opposed to what he believes is the plan of two convicts to "take the rap" for other plotters said to be equally guilty of starting the Easter Monday fire.

Warden Thomas admitted he is opposed to seeing the wishes of Hugh Gibson and Clinton Grate, two convicts already indicted, carried out. The pair, following an alleged confession which resulted in the return of indictments against them, said they want to die in the electric chair at once "to get it over."

Warden Thomas hinted that he believes the names of others accused of parts in the fire will be made public before Gibson and Grate will be permitted to get sentence of any kind.

Throughout the alleged confessions of Gibson and Grate names of at least four other convicts are said to be found. So far those names have been undisclosed. One of the group, it was said, has been questioned repeatedly, but has refused to admit any connection with the tragedy.

Attorneys for Convicted Pair in Bucyrus Jail File Second Motion.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, April 4—Basing their claim on the discovery of new evidence, attorneys Louis M. Kreiter, Arden Wiseman and Elmer Lutz today filed a second motion for a new trial in the case of Walter and Blaton Ralls, convicted murderers of Sheriff George Davenport.

First motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge C. U. Ahl March 28.

The attorneys state in their petition that evidence which will prove that there was mob violence at the jail following the death of Sheriff George Davenport, has come to light since the close of the trial and pronouncement of judgment.

Deering said the ninth and only missing blade had been recovered from a souvenir hunter who removed it from the wreckage and took it to Wichita.

SCHOOL WHIPPING CASE BEFORE JUDGE

Will Decide If Beating of Boy with Paddle Was Justifiable.

By The Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., April 4 — Whether a beating of an eight-year-old pupil with an 18-inch paddle was excessive and brutal or justified discipline will be decided by Judge Leonard Donovan.

Judge Donovan yesterday heard testimony in the case of Vernon Sprague, principal of Hopewell school, who was charged with assault and battery in the spanking of a second-grade pupil, Jackson Arnold. The judge termed the case one for the board of education rather than the courts, but added the whipping post ought to be revived for some cases.

Prof. Sprague admitted he struck the boy eight times with the paddle after disciplinary action had been requested by Miss Flora Ferguson, Jackson's teacher. Miss Ferguson said the boy had written an obscene note.

Sprague was arrested on a warrant filed by Britten V. Arnold, father of the boy.

Ring on Bathtub Is Chief Clue Left by Illinois Bank Bandits

By The Associated Press

MUNDELEIN, Ill., April 4—Marshal Clayton Tiffany was in a thoughtful mood today as he considered his clues in the case of the $10,000 robbery of the state bank of Mundelein.

They included: 1—A pair of fancy blue striped "shorts" belonging to Milan G. Mott, the bank's cashier, which one of the four bank bandits donned after he had taken a bath in Mr. Mott's home.

2—A dark circle which the robbers left in Mr. Mott's bath tub.

"Is there any reason why I shouldn't go [illegible] and take a bath?" the cashier's bank asked [illegible]

while his three companions were holding Mr. Mott and the members of his family captive in the Mott home.

And as no one objected proceeded to carry out his plans.

"An expert, with a microscope," Marshal Tiffany laughingly said, "might get some idea of the brawn personality of the fellow by taking a look at that ring."

County police searched the neighborhood for traces of the four robbers without results. They state the money when they took Mr. Mott to the bank yesterday, amounting [illegible] was in his residence [illegible]

SLANSER LUMBER CO., HAS FAITHFULLY SERV

Houghton Sulky Company's Auto Body Service Plan

BEFORE — AFTER

EXPERT WORKMEN ROLL OUT WRINKLES AND REBUILD CAR BODIES LIKE NEW

Craftsmanship incident to the building of fine racing and driving sulkies finds its place handily in the work of the Houghton Auto Body Service, established three years ago as a subsidiary of the Houghton Sulky Co.

Rehabilitation of wrecked automobiles offers a practical field for skilled wood-working, metal and finishing mechanics. While the Houghton Auto Body Service with W. H. Houghton, president, and T. S. Hoffman, manager, is entirely separate from the sulky concern and operates in entirely separate departments at the Houghton location on East Mill street, much work is routed through departments of the mother company.

3,300 Jobs Done

With 3,300 jobs having already been run through the shop since its establishment in November, 1928, Mr. Hoffman and his associates have come to appreciate the creative opportunities offered them and the fascination attached to their work. Auto wrecks of a seriousness that a few years ago would have been sent straight to the "old iron pile" are now returned to their original appearance and durability. Processes employed in this "remaking" of cars are exacting in method and results. Anything short of perfect duplication of the original is unacceptable, Mr. Hoffman says. Activities of the Houghton Body Service is limited to body and chassis work. Mechanical repairs in relation to the motive power of the car are turned over by this concern to dependable local garages.

Employ Skilled Mechanics

The Houghton body shop employs an expert metal worker with 25 years experience as a body builder. They also have a modern blacksmith shop, as well as a modern wood shop, with all the latest machinery. In these departments they employ the same skilled mechanics, who for so many years have made Houghton sulkies famous the world over. To take care of the upholstering on your car they have the most skilled workmen, in this line, to be found in this part of the country.

In painting a car the Houghton Body Service recommends and uses the Mimox system of lacquering. By using all the latest painting devices, they are able to give a car that "new car appearance" that is required to make a good paint job. Mr. Hoffman says, "Although I personally recommend the Mimox system of lacquering a car we are equipped to use any kind of lacquer desired by our customers."

Serves Wide Territory

The Houghton Auto Body Service does all the body and chassis work for several large automobile insurance companies. Among these they are the authorized garage of the Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co., which brings work from several counties to the local concern. There is no place we won't go for a wrecked car at any time, Mr. Hoffman says.

The Houghton Body Service is distrimutor for Libby-Owens safety glass. This glass is guaranteed not to blister or discolor and will not shatter. They have the equipment needed to cut and grind glass to fit either windshield, doors or windows in any make car. Because safety glass is so much better in case of an accident than ordinary glass, most of the newer automobiles are coming already equipped with this Libby-Owens product.

The Houghton Body Service is always willing to give free estimates on any job either large or small, and will be glad to call for and deliver your car.

RUSTIC FURNITURE OFFERS COMFORT

BY MARGERY TAYLOR

(Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine. Written for The Star.)

For the summer camp, the living room of the house in the country and the porch of the suburban home the new modernized rustic furniture will make an instant appeal.

In pioneer days rustic furniture was made for living purposes. But in the past 50 years, with the rusticity a kind of pose, designers seem to have tried to make rustic furniture uncomfortable. Sitting on it was really "roughing it."

In the modern type, however, the knob and splinter effects are abolished, and the result is comfortable and sophisticated—with the quaint rustic air still there.

Hickory was always the perfect wood for this furniture, and the new designers are true to the tradition.

A dining room in this style is grouped around an interesting trestle table, on which Italian pottery and green glass strike the right color note. A bright touch is supplied by the pads of red chintz on the ladder-back chairs.

Unpeeled hickory forms the frames of the living room pieces. The arms of the sofa and chairs are cane-wrapped, and deep, restful spring cushions satisfy the requirements of comfort.

The sofa and chairs are covered with an attractive printed linen, showing the log cabin birthplace of Andrew Jackson—"Old Hickory" himself—and green trees. To give a pleasing variety a settee in black, red and green carpet fabric is a suggestion.

Unpeeled hickory is used in the magazine rack, desk, side-table, straight chairs and the stem of the floor lamp. Table tops and case work are of stained oak or chestnut. For the floor a woven rag rug in a red, black and green plaid effect completes the picture.

Beds must be four posters, carved crudely in pioneer style. The dresser, chest and vanity have hickory frame, with oak-case work and hickory fittings.

Draperies and bedspreads should match, perhaps using the new horizontal striped fabric, colored from yellow to dark orange. For the glass curtains theatrical gauze seems a wise choice.

STUCCO APPLICATION

Modern stucco is a mixture of cement, sand and water, mixed to a plastic mass and applied while still soft, to the masonry wall surface to be covered, in several layers, usually three in number. These layers or coats bond to each other perfectly, making a uniform sheet of stucco at least an inch thick over the entire surface which becomes an integral part of the base to which it is applied. Soon after application the stucco commences to harden and after an interval of a few days it becomes a hard, rock-like mass—durable and permanent—unaffected by the atmosphere. Cement stucco can be applied to any type of masonry wall construction with entire confidence.

Van Atta Hardware Co. Sells New Roper Range

For half a century the Geo. D. Roper Corp., has been known as the builder of gas ranges. This position as a leader in a highly competitive industry has been maintained by the exercise of utmost care and thought in the design of, and by the use of skilled craftsmanship and quality materials in the construction of each Roper gas range.

Roger has designed a new gas range—a modern creation to grace the up-to-date kitchen. The alluring beauty of its classic lines—the wealth of conveniencs in-built — mark this new model. Of simple, compact, American design—not exotic nor extreme—it will harmonize with all modern kitchen architectural styles.

You Cook with HEAT ... Not with FIRE

And that's the reason why Electric Ranges can do your cooking for you more easily, quickly and conveniently. An Electric Range gives you HEAT without FIRE. Heat can be easily controlled—so you can put you meal in the oven and leave until you are ready to serve it. An automatic timer turns the heat on and off when you wish, and the heat control gives you just the temperature you wish.
When you cook the electric way, your pots and pans are never scorched by fire—they're always spotless without scouring. And the kitchen's free from soot. You'll be surprised at all the conveniences offered by electric cookery. We'll be delighted to demonstrate.

COMPANY WELL EQUIPPED TO OFFER ADVICE ON REMODELING OF HOMES

The Slanser Lumber & Coal Co., is well known to Marion and Marion county residents through serving the public since 1911. Millwork of any type is available at all times, for this company is equipped with the most modern of machinery.

In addition to high grade lumber the Slanser company carries a complete line of roofing, asbestos shingles and insulation for homes. This includes Balsam-Wool insulation, Mule Hide and Ambler shingles

Balsam-Wool is an ideal insulation for your home to keep it cool in summer and warm in winter. Examination of a sample of Balsam-Wool reveals that it does not require knowledge of insulation theories to see how this woolly blanket makes one's home proof against heat, cold, winds and dampness.

Years of Experience

The Slanser company, located at 160 North Greenwood street, has had years of experience in the right methods of modernizing homes. Old homesteads may be given new appearance and made modern in every respect at a small cost. There is always pride and satisfaction in having an attractive, modern home.

Families grow larger—houses do not. Needs and requirements are constantly changing. You'll never know until you experience the thrill of knowing your family is safely and comfortably housed in a dwelling of adequate size and convenience.

Possibly a little change would make your house more comfortable—sun room, sleeping porch, hardwood floors, inclosed breakfast porch or an addition bedroom. All borders for addition and alteration are given prompt attention. Slanser lumber, service and prices will satisfy.

Weatherbest stained shingles afford unlimited opportunity to gratify individual taste. With stained shingles laid right over the old wood or stucco siding homes are kept from growing old, given new beauty, greater value, better insulation, freedom from repainting expense and a modern aspect.

Use Waste Space

By using Sheetrock wallboard the wasted space in the basement may result in a playroom for the kiddies. You will be surprised how cheaply that idle room in the attic can be transformed into a bedroom or sewing room. For a small investment one may have the pleasure of a sunroom; enjoy a card game or the radio apart from the living room.

Many methods of making your home more livable will be explained by the Slanser company at your request. An artistic fireplace, for example, may complete the charm and coziness of your living room. Advance ideas in design and construction; newest decorative creations in styles to harmonize with every interior are embodied in this expensive fireplace. Adapted for coal, gas or electricity without a chimney it is ready to be set in your home.

You will marvel at the mechanical simplicity and ease of operation of the Majestic Verti-Fold garage door—a door different in design, construction and operating features. Instead of swinging or sliding to one side, it folds up and down. There is no springs or track on ceiling, no mechanism concealed in slender metal castings. It closes snugly, is weatherproof at all points and may be locked or unlocked from either side according to Mr. Slanser, who is distributor for Verti-Fold doors in this district.

LARGE LIVING ROOM ADDS TO APPEAL

Among its other good points, this house features a large living room, increasingly popular the world over.

In the arrangement here the living room is to the right of the spacious entrance hall. On the left is the dining room, and directly ahead is the stairway.

Adding attractiveness to the exterior is the tall bay, which enlarges the dining room and bedroom above it. Adjacent to the living room is a convenient lavatory.

The very large fireplace claims much interest in the living room. Other notable features here are the space for books and the fernery bay window beside the chimney.

Upstairs there are four bedrooms and a bath. All rooms have good sunlight and cross-ventilation.

Exterior walls are of buff, coral or cream stucco. The half-timbering and wide clapboards are rough-hewn, adz and other marks showing through the weathered gray finish.

The roof is given colorful touches here and there by the judicious mingling of siennas and sepias with the prevailing dark gray slate.

The entrance should face east, providing east, west and south exposures for the living room. Some owners might prefer to let the end housing the dining room and kitchen face the street, thus throwing the long way of the living room upon the garden.

The lot should be at least 60 by 125 feet, while one 75 by 125 feet would be even more suitable. Trees and landscaping will add greatly to the charm of this spacious residence.

The cost will range between $6,000 and $8,000, subject to local conditions and the owner's choice of materials.

Britain's drink bill in 1930 is estimated at $1,387,500,000, which, considering the low cost of liquor in wet Britain compared to its high cost here in dry America, must be accepted as a staggering showing.

Up in Minnesota, a state senator has offered a bill providing for the payment of a $100 bonus to the parents of each baby born "in lawful wedlock," the senator's explanation being that the bill is designed to discourage the practice of birth control and sterilization. Isn't the bonus business being somewhat overdone?

Undeterred by the outcries of protest from the dry-voting South, Democratic National Chairman Raskob continues to insist that the only way Democracy can achieve victory in 1932 is not only boldly to face the rum issue, but also to embrace it. John J. may be all right, but it's hard to understand where he gets the political dope upon which to base a hope like that.

Decline of the Direct Primary.

Opposition to the direct primary is increasing in Ohio. The senate has adopted a resolution offered by Senator Milton J. Scott to submit an amendment abolishing the system to the electorate next November, and the house should follow suit. Only two senators cast dissenting votes, and no opposition to the resolution was voiced.

The interest of the public is to have the best government possible. An unsatisfactory record of national and state government since general adoption of the direct primary experiment during the second decade of the century proves that the public's interest is not being served by a nominating system that eliminates party responsibility, creates expense and encourages wire-pulling. A change back to the convention system is inevitable.

Ohio, like most other states of the union—led on by a mirage of ideal government, pushed from behind by unscrupulous politicians, and wishing to escape certain evils of the convention system as it operated in the nineteenth century—turned to the direct primary. It did not see that the evils of the convention system had grown up through lack of statutory restrictions and could be corrected. There has been a steadily increasing consciousness of the evils of the primary system almost from the time of its adoption.

Electoral systems in the United States, the British dominions and Europe are established on the basis of the natural rights of the individual. It was assumed originally that the voter would act independently; the development of government has shown, however, that he performs political functions better when working as part of a group. Through the nineteenth century political parties were allowed to form and go their way without interference—an error that resulted, in some instances, in corruption and unreasonable control. The inevitable public reaction was to abandon the convention system by which the parties maintained control. Now it is apparent that the alternative system, to which Ohio and many other states resorted, is worse than the one it displaced. A lack of control, encouraging political irresponsibility, is wreaking havoc with good government.

A Long Road To Travel.

It may have been merely a case of coincidence; it may have been by design, but whichever the case, statistics on air transportation in 1930 just given out by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce in Washington will attract more than ordinary attention at a time when the tragic death of Knute Rockne is so deeply impressed upon the national consciousness.

The departments figures show that but twenty-four passengers and eight pilots were killed in accidents on scheduled air transport lines in 1930, and that the last half of that year was the safest six months since complete records have been kept, but two passengers and three pilots having been killed during the half-year period although there were forty-seven accidents. As 51,482,683 passenger miles were flown over scheduled transport lines during the six months, this means an average of 25,741,316 passenger miles to each passenger fatality.

The department's figures also brought out the wonderful stride made in commercial aviation during 1930, air passenger travel during the year over domestic and foreign scheduled lines operated by American companies having more than doubled and the increase in miles flown having been in excess of 10,000,000 over the mileage record made in 1929.

Lines operated by American companies last year carried 417,505 passengers, 8,324,255 pounds of mail and 2,869,255 pounds of express against the 1929 record of 173,000 passengers carried, 7,772,014 pounds of mail and 1,866,879 pounds of express. The actual miles flown increased from 25,141,499 in 1929 to 36,945,203 last year.

That an idea may be had of the relative proportion of transportation over American lines and over foreign lines operated by American companies, it may be well to state that the transport lines operated outside the country were in Canada, Central and South America and including three routs in Alaska, eight companies operating twenty-nine routes during the latter half of 1930. Over these routes planes flew 2,645,756 miles and carried 20,169 passengers, 339,245 pounds of mail and 106,029 pounds of express, the passenger miles flown being 8,442,330, a passenger mile being the equivalent of one passenger flown one mile.

But despite the showing made last year by scheduled air transport lines operated by American organizations, the death of Knute Rockne and the other seven occupants of the plane which crashed this week near Bazar, Kansas, causing the death of the eight will tend to strengthen the rather general conviction that aviation has a long road of development ahead of it before it can pass as a safe method of travel under ordinary weather conditions and still further to go before it will receive general recognition as safe under adverse weather conditions.

While the exact cause of the Kansas tragedy is not yet known and may never be, it is stated that the weather conditions were such as to add extra hazard to air travel. In this connection it is interesting to note that 32.02 per cent. of the forty-seven accidents on scheduled air lines the latter half of last year, so the commerce department reports, were due to weather conditions.

Another Well-Known Actor Gone.

Whether Maclyn Arbuckle was right or wrong in his one-time stage line, "Nobody loves a fat man"—a line inseparality linked with him in the thoughts of hundreds of thousands of playgoers of a decade or two ago—it is hardly probable that any one who knew him in the zenith of his fame, did not feel regret when reading the news of his death at his home at Waddington, New York, after an illness of more than four years.

Known alike to the stage and screen, his greatest artistic successes were achieved on the former, chief among them being his role of Sheriff "Slim" Hoover in "The Roundup" and his later part of Jim Hackett in the George Ade's excellent play, "The County Chairman." It was in the former that the line by which he was known far and wide appeared. Motion picture patrons will probably recall him as the star who played the title role in "The Prodical Judge," which was alike a financial and artistic success.

Arbuckle was originally trained for the bar and practiced law for something like a year in Boston. However his inclination was toward a stage career, and after the short essay at the law stated, he forsook it to answer the call of the footlights, back of which he speedily began to show aptitude, and it was not long before he became a favorite of the stage.

It would be going too far to hold that Maclyn Arbuckle ever attained, or even approached, the topmost rounds of histrionic fame, but he very probably gave more real enjoyment to patrons of the theater than many who did, and none who knew him at his best but will regret that there are not more actors like him today and more plays such as those in which he starred.

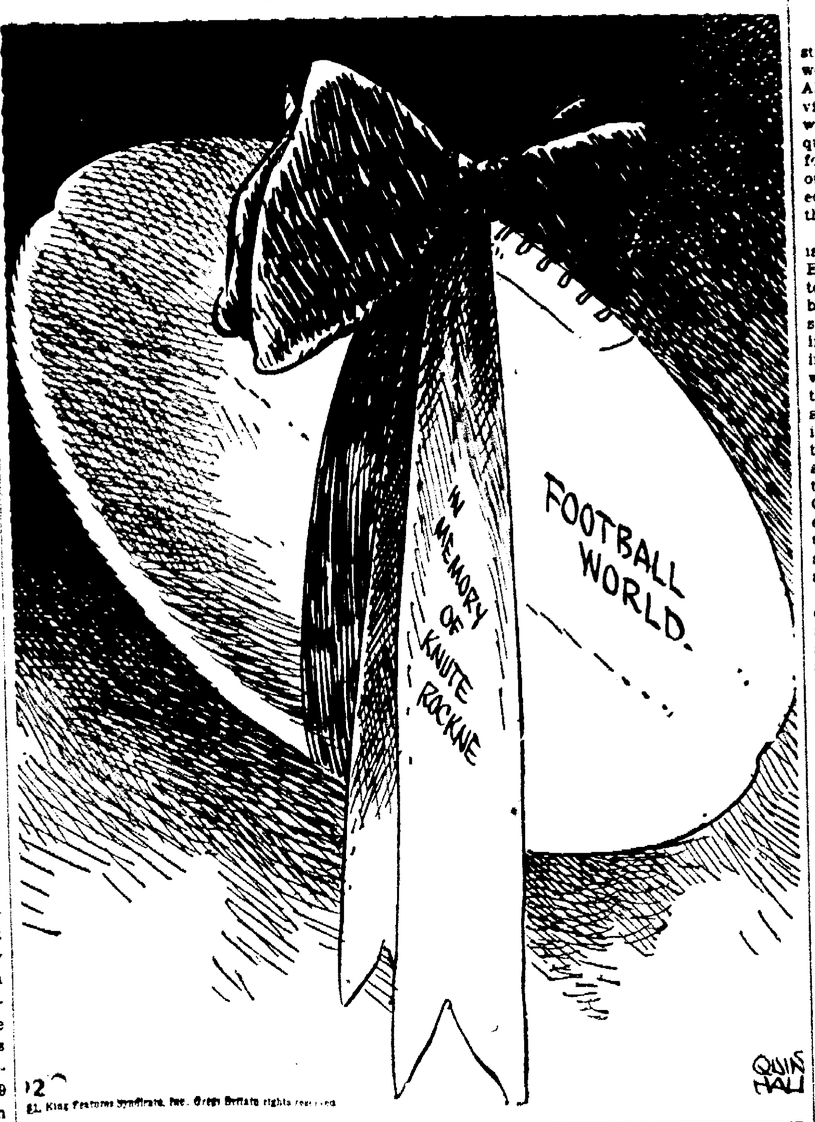
From Moscow comes a story that Russia is suffering from trade depression. At last Russia, in one particular at least, is in line with the rest of the world.

A Wall Street firm, which is one of the largest stock brokerage houses in the country, has raised the salaries of all its employes 12½ per cent. to make good their salaries cut during the depression. Here's a pretty fair pointer that "the corner" has been turned sufficiently, at least, to enable the lambs to return for another shearing.

Near Leghorn, Italy, a gusher is throwing borate of soda to a height of more than 800 feet and making such a deafening noise that it has been found necessary to dismiss the schools within a radius of eight miles. Borate of soda should experience a bear market in that section of the world for some time to come.

The jail at Coralville, Iowa, not having had a tenant for twenty-five years, the village authorities burned it down two weeks ago. A night or two since, five vagrants hit the village, loaded up on liquid poison and created such a disturbance that they were arrested, hauled to Iowa City and jailed there. The Coralville authorities now realize that it isn't good policy to let it be noised about the country that a community is without a jail.

THE END OF THE GAME.



Editorial Opinion.

CANALS AND QUAKES.

The Managua disaster has revived discussion as to the feasibility of a transisthmian canal through Nicaraguan territory. General Brown, chief of engineers, has stated that the earthquake will have no effect so far as the army is concerned on its pending report as to the advisability of constructing such a canal. The canal, he says, has little to fear from an earthquake. Several shocks have been felt at Panama, but none has ever dented the canal locks there. He does not go so far as to say that a shock would not conceivably injure a canal, "but they would have to be extraordinary."

In this connection it is recalled that when congress was considering the question of undertaking canal construction, the earthquake argument was used effectively against the Nicaragua route. A postage stamp of Nicaraguan issue was exhibited before the senate committee then discussing the measure which is said to have some influence in turning the decision toward the Panama project. This stamp showed an active volcano in vigorous eruption.

It is recognized that another canal is needed or will soon be urgently required to accommodate the rapidly increasing water traffic, if the Panama canal itself is not enlarged. The Nicaragua route, which was originally contemplated and was very nearly adopted for the initial American project, is strongly favored by some engineers. Whether the forthcoming report on the subject will approve it is now a question, though General Brown's remarks suggest that the immediate seismic disturbance at Managua will not affect the recommendations.

The Panama canal cost about $378,000,000 and was completed in ten years. In the opinion of some engineers the Nicaragua canal can be cut in the same time at about twice the cost of the Panama waterway. The Nicaragua route is 177 miles long as against fifty at Panama. A preliminary estimate has placed the cost of an enlargement of the Panama canal at $100,000,000. Advocates of the Nicaragua route contend that the saving of mileage would compensate for the greater cost of the more northerly canal, it being about 500 miles above Panama.

Whatever is done in the matter of enlargement or a new canal, it is evident from a study of the figures of canal traffic since Panama was opened to commerce that in a few years the present facilities for the passage of ships between the Atlantic and the Pacific will be inadequate. The Panama canal is now a paying business for the United States government and another canal or an enlargement of this present route would undoubtedly soon pay its own way in returns upon the investment cost.—Washington Star.

THE CRISES OF CIVILIZATION.

Governor Roosevelt, of New York, in an address the other day spoke of the habit of people today insisting that civilization is going through the most severe test to which it has been put, and urging that even in the United States changing conditions and changing needs have brought us face to face with the necessity of changing some of our methods of government.

Dictatorships are urged by the pessimists or communism or the usurpation of constitutional functions by public servants. But the governor called attention to a fact which can not be too much impressed upon the public mind, that it is well for us to remember what many times before in the history of nations, and in the history of the United States in particular, great crises have been met and conquered.

We began with and met the crisis of 1776, of the Civil war, the World war—the crises of panic and depression which weighed down the country in all its dark periods, and the nation and the world still goes on—we met them and conquered them even as we have met and shall conquer the present national and world economic disturbance.

Times of stress and disaster and discontent are the times when the radical demagogue flourishes. In the name of all that is righteous and holy he howls his hectic effusions to the dear common people. He finds a glittering opportunity in the halls of legislation, extends himself in institutions of learning, preempts pulpits and rostrums and rages before the awed and confused assemblages of inquiring womanhood, stimulates human greed in the avenues of business and mouths his outcry across the roof of the world. There is nothing wrong with America except that it is afflicted by too many would-be and self-styled leaders and a too generous proportion of credulous persons willing to be impressed by platitudes which have been old since the early days of civilization, people who refuse to look forward beyond the present moment.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Value of Simpler Foods.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

From letters received I judge it is time for another article on constipation. This is so common an ailment that new readers demand suggestions regarding its management.

Among women, particularly, this trouble is almost universal. It is really distressing to learn what a lot of purging, "internal bathing," and special dieting are indulged in by the victims of constipation.

Let me inquire: Is it not possible that the rather vague and uncomfortable abdominal symptoms many persons have are due rather to their efforts to overcome constipation than to the condition itself?

The practice of taking a dose of medicine, an oil of some sort, bran and all that sort of thing, may actually be at fault for the symptoms. The laxative habit is a bad habit.

Certainly, if these "anti-constipation" things are taken every day, it is impossible to determine whether the discomfort is due to the "treatment," or really comes from the sluggishness of the symptoms. Think about it a bit.

If you have done these common things for a long time, let me suggest that you set them aside for a time. Leave off the eating of coarse foods and take the common things for a while.

In spite of oft-repeated advice, there is a steadfast determination to clean the system not only once but several time daily. Yet it must be admitted that lots of apparently healthy persons obtain voiding only every second day, or even every third or fourth day.

Some time we will discuss this matter at length, but at this time I wish to quote a few words from the book of a really great physician, Dr. Walter C. Alverez, of the Mayo clinic. We won't pass judgment on this conclusion, but the statement deserves serious thought. Here is the quotation:

"Some people eat so little or eat such concentrated food that it may be two days or more before voiding is necessary; and others, perhaps, have such an efficient system that it absorbs almost everything and leaves little to be voided. It seems to me that such men and women should not attempt to clear the system every day; nature did not intend that they should, and the physician must refrain from meddling."

Lincoln and Grant in 1864.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Lincoln had entire confidence in Grant as a soldier, but he felt that he could not rely upon him for cooperation in political matters. As the presidential election of 1864 drew near, President Lincoln's friends felt that there was danger of his defeat. A number of the big states were uncertain. Pennsylvania was one that was giving them uneasiness.

In this situation, Mr. Lincoln sent for Colonel A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, who confirmed the President's impression that all was not well there. After Colonel McClure had outlined the bad situation Mr. Lincoln asked: "Well, what is to be done?" He was plainly anxious. Colonel McClure suggested that if a considerable number of Pennsylvania soldiers could be given a furlough of two weeks so that they might come home at election time, the situation could be saved.

Lincoln's face brightened at once. Colonel McClure suggested that the matter be taken up with General Grant, but the President's face clouded again at once. General Grant would no doubt cooperate in the matter, the colonel suggested again. Lincoln made no reply, but with downcast eyes sat gloomy. Colonel McClure was astonished at his evident doubt regarding the attitude of General Grant.

"Surely, Mr. President," said he, "you can trust Grant with a confidential suggestion to furlough home Pennsylvania troops." They sat in silence for a half minute and Colonel McClure continued: "It can't be possible that General Grant is not your friend; he can't be such an ingrate."

Mr. Lincoln still sat silent for a few seconds and then calmly said: "Well, McClure, I have no reason to believe that General Grant prefers my election to that of General McClellan." General Meade was next suggested as the military authority through whom to act, but that did not meet a favorable reaction in the President. Finally, Sheridan was mentioned. At his name, the President's face lighted up and he replied: "Oh, Phil Sheridan is all right," and the plan was carried out; 10,000 soldiers were sent home to vote and the state went for Lincoln by 5,712.

James Edward Keeler.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The dominant role of astrophysics in the study of the external universe as a whole is well illustrated by the recent visit of Professor Albert Einstein to this country. He has spent virtually his entire time in personal contact with this country's leading astrophysicists, acquiring the very latest and most important information regarding the nebulae and many other features of the universe. This knowledge he hopes to utilize in development of the third phase of his theory of relativity.

One of the most distinguished astrophysicists this country has ever produced was James Edward Keeler, born at La Salle, Illinois, September 10, 1857. He had a strong mechanical bent, derived directly from his father, which stood him in good stead when he came, later in life, as an astronomer to work with large instruments of high precision. As a lad, he was an amateur astronomer, using a two-inch telescope which he had mounted himself; and somewhat later he built for himself a meridian telescope. So important became his work that he turned a professional astronomer, studying at Johns Hopkins and accompanying the naval observational eclipse party to Center City, California, as a junior assistant. For several years thereafter, he worked as assistant to the famous S. P. Langley at Allegheny observatory at Pittsburgh, and also studied abroad at Heidelberg and Berlin.

After working as assistant to the trustees of the Lick observatory, then in course of construction, he became one of the astronomers and entered upon a career of great usefulness and distinction. It was fortunate for science that he was assigned to spectroscopic work, in which he showed proficiency. With his star spectroscope he made important studies of Saturn's rings, Uranus, Gamma Cassiopeiae and Beta Lyrae, and of the Orion nebulae and the planetary nebulae. He made the important discovery, hitherto unsuspected, that the velocities of the nebulae in their motion through space were of the same order of magnitude as the velocities of the stars. Among other results of his studies at this time was a series of notable drawings of the planets, Saturn, Jupiter and Mars.

After serving as leader of the Lick observatory solar eclipse expedition in 1889, he accepted the directorship of the Allegheny observatory and professorship of astrophysics in the Western University of Pennsylvania. In 1895 he made probably the most important contribution to knowledge of his entire career. This was the clearing up of the mystery of the constitution of Saturn's rings. Many speculations regarding their nature and behavior had been made by mathematical astronomers. By making use of the classic Doppler-Fizeau principle, Keeler was able to prove spectrographically that every point in the ring system was moving with the velocity possessed by a moon at that distance from the planet. The upshot of all his studies was that instead of being composed of solid matter, Saturn's rings were discovered to be merely clusters of meteorites or myriads of little moons. In the "Book of Popular Science" is is stated that this discovery of the insolidity of Saturn's rings in its importance has never been surpassed in the entire field of astronomy, and has been referred to as the greatest astronomical observation ever made.

On March 3, 1898, Keeler was appointed director of the Lick observtory. His work here with the Crossley reflector, which he greatly improved, was particularly notable. Among other discoveries he showed that there were about 120,000 nebulae scattered through the heavens, fully half of which were of spiral form. Keeler was highly honored with awards of medals, degrees and membership in famous scientific societies. Largely due to overwork, he died on August 2, 1900.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Dinner Stories.

"When I was a boy," said Senator Sorghum, "I wanted to run away and be a clown in a circus."

"That would have greatly disappointed your parents."

"They felt that way about it at first. Later on they wished I had succeeded in being a regular high-salaried clown, instead of making myself amateurishly ridiculous in politics."

"Hello, old man, haven't seen you for weeks. Where have you been?"

"In the hospital getting censored."

"Censored?"

"Yes; had a few parts cut out."

She—"Is this the rice I told you to get to throw at the wedded pair?"

He—"It is."

She—"Why, this is the puffed kind."

He—"Of course. It's a swell wedding."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, April 4—I am the type of weak-minded husband who goes shopping with his wife. And loves it. I even sit in hairdressing parlors pretending to read Harper's Bazaar while waiting for her. And by the way, there's grand eaves-dropping in such joints for those cupping a sly ear.

Long before the clandestine amours of the town are broadcast—Hello Jenny and Alex in East Passaic!—to the twelve heart balm deciders in the jury box they are ringing in the corridors of coiffure salons. In a half hours visit you know who's renting a duplex for who.

And you'd be astonished how many heads of beautiful hair I know the original color of. The way I fix up prepositions! As for face lifts, remind me some day after lunch to give you an earful. I know two recent hists that would hand you a sinking spell.

But the real fun is being a shopping "stooge." Of course, you have to take an awful beating carrying bundles and opening doors, but the lovely ladies you get to see in paddling from counter to counter. Types! Types! Types! There is, for instance, the languid type.

She moves toward you in those slow swoops like Isadora Duncan dying at the end of the dance. And just as you get ready to speak, she turns and trills to some one away off: "And the car broke down and we didn't get home until after 3 o'clock."

Then she eyes you as one does a worm and with a mounting inflection inquires: "Ye-e-es?" I always choke up like a pink-faced boob and stammer: "I'm just with my wife." And trail off in to a silly little chuckle—hu, hu, hu—sarcastic voice from the next room: "Listen, giggling at his own comedy!"

As a matter of fact I had to chuckle out loud so I'd know how to spell hu, hu, hu. What was I talking about? O yes, the languid sales girl. Well, she drooped so much while talking that I snapped my finger at a floorwalker and screamd: "Fetch Miss Garbo a chair!" That's me in a pinch—the trigger boy.

* * *

Then there is the type who knows what one wants better than the customer. Whatever is wanted you are told that nobody is wearing it this season. And I love Baird Leonard's reply to one of that sort. Said she: "Because everybody is not wearing it is exactly why I want it."

* * *

* * *

I got keyed up in a wakeful hour last night thinking about my experiences shopping with my wife. I thought I could rattle off a dandy column. But somehow I am hung up right here. A minute! Maybe if I relax..... Those dots indicate walking into the other room and fooling with the dog. But it is no use. I don't think I can go ahead. I should tear it up and begin all over again. Yet there seems to me one or two fairly good trifles in it. I like that "Hello Jenny and Alex in East Passaic!" anyway.

* * *

I might stick in the story they used to tell about William—nee Willie—Collier on a shopping trip with his wife. An evening gown high in front and extremely low in the back was selected. "It is all right," said Collier, "but if she ever gets into it backward, how are the folks!" Still that's pretty old. Maybe I never was any good.

* * *

But don't quit! I just thought up something. They ought to keep those barehead boys out of the big stores or lapel them as customers. The other day in Macy's basement—and is that a prowler's paradise!—I pranced up to two lidless lads, mistaking them for floor-walking help, and inquired the way to oilcloths. Such looks!

* * *

I never did find oilcloths, but in one of my usual lucky blunders—a tot of Fortune, heigh ho!—I stumbled onto some bath salts scented like the pine forests. And you wouldn't know me. Just a big breath of the great outdoors.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Minority Government.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, April 4 — Jim Watson, Republican floor leader of the senate, has not the desire of Joe Robinson, Democratic floor leader, to have the choice seat in the senate chamber from which to plan his attacks.

Robinson's position on the floor is the first seat in the first row of the Democratic side. Watson takes his stand as Republican chief four seats from the aisle in the second row—at the desk where sat Daniel Webster when he was in the senate.

Watson has this explanation why he doesn't move down opposite Robinson:

"Old Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, once sat there. The sergeant-at-arms approached him once with the request that he be permitted to make certain alterations in the desk. The old senator said no, giving as his reason:

"'What was good enough for Daniel Webster is good enough for me.'

"I feel much the same way."

Incidentally there's another desk in the chamber whose occupant says he'll never surrender as long as he is a senator. The senator is Pat Harrison, and his desk is the one where sat Jefferson Davis when he was a member of the senate.

* * *

Proud of his attendance record in the senate is the handsome, soft-voiced Sheppard, of Texas. To miss a session of the senate, a roll call or a quorum is something he never does if it is humanly possible to get there.

He keep books on his attendance. At the end of each day in congress Sheppard returns to his office, pulls down his ledger and records his activities during the day. At the close of the seventy-first congress he found with pride that:

He had served a total of 5,898 days in the senate and had been absent only thirteen, an average absence of less than one day a year.

That most of this time away from the senate was because in 1930 he was a member of the senate committee appointed to attend the funeral of a fellow member of congress;

That prior to this funeral he had been continuously present at all sessions of the senate for more than seven years.
